Solons May Abolish Job Of McHugh

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's appointment of Simon F. McHugh, who married a White House secretary, to a $500-a-week job led Friday to a demand that Congress abolish the Subversive Activities Control Board.

The apparent theory: If you can't take the man out of the job, take the job out from under the man.

The abolition call came from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who said the board McHugh joined Monday—with Senate approval—is "a ridiculous extravagance."

The board has virtually nothing to do, Proxmire said.

"The job itself is a sinecure," he said, "the compensation of $26,000 is for doing little or nothing, the board had its last formal meeting some six months ago."

DIFFERENT APPROACH

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., tried a different approach. He proposed that the Senate ask the White House to return McHugh's confirmation papers, then reconsider its action in approving the appointment.

"This whole thing has been rushed," Williams said.

Neither his motion nor the bill proposed by Proxmire appeared to have much chance of Senate adoption. But the uproar could spell trouble for the subversive Activities Control Board when the Senate Appropriations Committee takes up a bill containing its allowance for the year ahead.

Committee hearings are due to start next Thursday. The House approved a $295,000 appropriation for the SACB, which wanted $330,000.

"Frankly, I don't know what all the hulabaloo is about," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

He said there was no objection to the nomination and it cleared the Senate unanimously. There were, he acknowledged, few senators on hand at the time.

The Wall Street Journal started the uproar Thursday with a front page story which said McHugh got the job because of his marriage to Victoria McCammon, once a Johnson secretary.

One Democratic source said the White House was anxious to have McHugh's nomination confirmed by the Senate before any trouble developed. It was, and McHugh took his oath of office as a board member shortly after the Senate acted.

Board Chairman John W. Mahan said McHugh was sworn into his job Monday. A newsman who visited McHugh's office found it bare except for two vacant desks, some cabinets, and a color photo of President Johnson.

CALIFORNIA GOV. RONALD Reagan and U.S. Senator George Murphy appear to be a happy pair as the two talk to newsmen in Sacramento Friday. Later the two left for Bohemian Grove where they plan to meet with former Vice President Richard Nixon. Anti-Rackets Measure Is Approved By Senate

By MILO DAKIN

BATON ROUGE — Landmark legislation that gives the Louisiana governor authority to directly intervene where extortion or bribery is alleged in labor disputes was sent to the chief executive for his signature Friday.

Then the House and Senate, halfway through a 12-day special session, adjourned for a lengthy recess until next Friday at noon. A few resolutions will be handled then before the session adjourns sine die.

The bill creating a labor-management commission was first seen by legislators Monday after Gov. McKeithen called the session to deal with a massive work shutdown in the Baton Rouge area.

The governor is expected to sign the bill into law and appoint the commission immediately, probably this weekend.

Some 15,000 workers have been off jobs for six weeks affecting an estimated $250 million in construction along the Mississippi river. Allegations of bribery and extortion have been made in the labor - management dispute.

The Louisiana AFL - CIO publicly called for state intervention, apparently to clean up a black eye that all labor is getting statewide.

COMMISSION MAKEUP

The commission, composed of labor, management and members of the general public, will work at the governor's descretion with legislative authority to investigate extortion and bribery through subpeona power.

There has been no opposition to creation of the commission. The only difficulties encountered as the bill was steered to final passage came from industry which objected the proposal was too weak.

Objection centered around the commission's lack of authority to investigate violence in labor disputes. AFL - CIO President Victor Bussie said too much power would put the commission into a position of intervening into normal labor - management disputes.

McKeithen said the commission's job would be to investigate and determine where crimes of extortion and bribery existed. This information would then be relayed to proper local authorities such as a parish grand jury.

CONFIDENCE

"When there is violence committed, we will know about it," the Governor said. "I intend to beef up the state police with the best investigative force that money can buy." He said the state would not wait for local law enforcement to act when violence erupts from disputes "we will move in immediately."

Gov. Reagan Not To Make Deal At Meet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan and Richard M. Nixon both declared Friday they would not make any deals about the Republican presidential campaign when they meet at an informal breakfast Saturday in the privacy of Bohemian Grove.

Comments of the two men figuring prominently in pre-convention speculation for 1968 came in separate interviews in San Francisco and Sacramento as they headed for the meeting at the Bohemian Club's resort 80 miles north of San Francisco.

"I intend to listen," Reagan said of his visit to the hideaway. "There will be no deal talking," Nixon said in a curbside interview as he passed through San Francisco.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly that we do not intend to have, shall we say, the 'Summit of Bohemia' for the purpose of determining the future of the Republican Party in California and the nation.

"Governor Reagan, Senator George Murphy and I are going to have breakfast at the Grove this morning, I think that's the current plan.

"We have no agenda for the meeting."

Nixon, narrow loser to John F. Kennedy in the 1960 presidential election, said he would decide about his possible candidacy in 1968 about the end of the year—"within a few weeks before or after."

Asked if he thought Reagan would be the strongest Republican presidential candidate, Nixon replied: "I will answer only by saying I believe that any one of those who have been prominently mentioned as candidates would defeat President Johnson in a close election in 1968.

"I am prepared to support any one of those who is elected by the convention, and I would support his enthusiastically. That would include Governor Reagan, of course. He is one who has been mentioned as a potential candidate."

Asked if he intended to do any political pulse taking during his current visit to California, Nixon replied: "Not at this time. No."

He added, however, "I expect to be in California quite a bit in the next year."

Sources close to Reagan emphasized even more strongly that the governor would maintain his official "non-candidate" position in talking to Nixon and would not participate in any political dealing.

Also attending the sylvan encampment conducted each summer by the Bohemian club, a San Francisco social group, are Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who was Nixon's 1960 running mate; and Gov. Claude R. Kirk of Florida.

Partly Cloudy, Warm Outlook

In Northeast Louisiana today, forecasters have predicted clear to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures to prevail through Sunday. Forecasters have also predicted a few afternoon thundershowers with temperatures in the early mornings ranging from 70 to 74 and daytime and evening ranging between 86 and 92.

The Louisiana Delta agricultural forecast calls for drying conditions poor at night and good during the day. Dewpoints in the upper 60's and lower 70's are expected. Moderate to locally heavy dew is expected, drying off around 10 a.m. this morning. Winds will be mostly southeasterly at 5 to 15 m.p.h.

In the Monroe area Friday, FAA Station at Selman Field recorded a high of 88 and a low of 70. No rain was recorded although residents did receive a shower late Friday evening.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A woman tubercular patient whose confinement in state prison "death house" resulted in controversy in June, has been given a conditional reprieve to receive treatment at Charity Hospital here.

Mrs. Audrey Lynn Hand was released from St. Gabriel Women's prison Thursday by Gov. John J. McKeithen.

Administration Officials Note $9.9 Billion Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported Friday an administrative budget deficit of $9.9 billion for the fiscal year just ended — the largest in eight years and the second highest in "peacetime" history.

Cost of the Vietnam war exceeded $20 billion.

Despite its size, the deficit was $1.1 billion below the estimates given last May by federal officials to the House Ways and Means Committee for the year which ended June 30. But it was $200 million above last January's forecast.

Estimates of the budget deficit for the new fiscal year range from $13.6 billion to more than $20 billion.

A report by Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Budget Bureau Director Charles L. Schultze listed receipts for the 1967 fiscal year at $115.8 billion—$1.2 billion below January's estimate — and spending at $125.7 billion — $1 billion below expectations.

HIGH DEFICIT

At the same time, the report showed a national income accounts budget deficit of $7.5 billion, the highest in 21 years.

This budget concept is broader than the administrative budget and includes trust fund spending and receipts such as Social Security.

This deficit had been figured last January at $3.8 billion.

National income account receipts were listed at $147.7 billion and spending at $155.2 billion.

Turning to the administrative budget, Fowler and Schultze said military spending at $67.57 billion for the year was $620 million above the January estimate because of the Vietnam war.

Direct Vietnam spending had been anticipated last January at $19.4 billion plus another $500 million for military aid.

For military spending and foreign military aid combined, the report listed expenditures of $68.4 billion, $470 million above last January's estimate.

"This overrun," Fowler and Shultze said, "is well within the normal margin of estimating error when dealing with so large a total, particularly during a period of war."

The deficit was the largest since the $12.4 billion—the peace time record—of the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1959. It compared with a $2.25 billion deficit during the previous year.

The administration was criticized sharply in congress earlier this year for inaccurate estimates of Vietnam spending. When the budget for fiscal 1967 was originally submitted in January, 1966, it estimated Vietnam costs at $10.5 billion.

Fowler and Shultze said the $1.2-billion shortfall in tax revenues stemmed mainly from lower individual income tax collections, off $700 million from January's estimate.

Corporate taxes, excise taxes, estate and gift taxes and customs receipts were also off slightly from earlier estimates.

Despite the shortfall, tax receipts exceeded the previous year's collections by more than $11 billion. Fowler and Shultze said this reflects the continued growth in jobs and incomes and the tax adjustment act of 1966 which placed collections on a more current basis.

The $1-billion drop in spending below the January estimate reflects a $1.5-billion reduction in nondefense outlays.

U.S. Troops Ambushed; Kill Ninety

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. cavalry troop, outnumbered 3 to 1, beat off an attempted Viet Cong ambush Friday and in two hours of heavy fighting killed 90 of the enemy. The U.S. Command reported American losses as 13 killed and 59 wounded.

The fighting broke out about 40 miles east-northeast of Saigon and large-scale ground action flared in several other sections of the country after a lull of 11 days. Spokesmen said 380 Communists died under guns of South Korean and South Vietnamese troops Friday.

In the air war, American B52 bombers returned to the A Shau Valley Friday night and Saturday in two raids, dropping tons of explosives on Communist staging areas in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

And U.S. Navy pilots shot down three Communist MIGs in the summer's first significant dogfight over North Vietnam.

The Navy fliers expressed hope that a fourth MIG, listed as probably destroyed in the aerial skirmish 20 miles north of Haiphong, will be confirmed a kill. That would raise to 81 the number of Soviet-built jets knocked down in dogfights compared to 20 American aircraft.

U.S. headquarters said a troop of about 200 men of the U.S. Army's 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment ran into a large enemy force that was trying to set up an ambush. The cavalrymen at the time were moving along Route 20 on a road-clearing operation.

The enemy force was estimated as a reinforced battalion of 500 to 600 men and was later identified as a unit of the 275th Viet Cong Regiment.

The cavalry unit was reinforced by a second cavalry troop and supported by artillery, gunship helicopters and air strikes.

U.S. headquarters said the Viet Cong broke contact just two hours after the fight erupted. Headquarters said damage to the cavalrymen's tank force was light and that the cavalrymen captured 25 enemy weapons and a 57mm recoilless rifle.

The bombing strikes against jungle enemy positions on the border of Laos raised to five the number of B52 raids there since Thursday.

Court Stays IT&T Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Friday stayed at least until July 31 the merger of ABC and the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. The consolidation had been scheduled to become effective next Tuesday.

Ruling on a Justice Department request for delay, a three-judge panel directed ABC and ITT to file before 4 p.m. EDT next Thursday their answers to a department motion for an injunction to block the merger until the court rules on its overall validity.

The court then set 10 a.m. July 31 for arguments on the government's motion.

These orders of the court headed by Chief Judge David L. Bazelon were issued a few hours after it had heard 45 minutes of arguments on the department's request for a temporary stay.

The Federal Communications Commission approved the $2.8-billion consolidation — biggest ever in broadcasting — on June 29 for a second time. Each vote was 4 to 3.

Earlier Friday, the Justice Department appealed the FCC action, challenging virtually every reason the commission gave for approving the merger.

In reaction to the litigation, ABC stock on the New York Stock Exchange plummetted 2⅛ points Friday to 80⅛.

Herbert A. Bergson, representing ABC and ITT, told the court that the Justice Department's part in the merger proceeding so far has been one of continual delay. He said the department has failed to show that it stands a good chance of succeeding in its appeal and argued that the merger should be permitted to be consummated on Tuesday as scheduled.

Assembly Returns Mideast To Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly wound up a frustrated five-week emergency session Friday night with a decision to adjourn and leave the search for a Middle East settlement to the Security Council.

The assembly acted after the Arabs torpedoed a last-minute peace plan presented by the Soviet Union and worked out in cooperation with the United States.

Neither Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko nor U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg referred to that development in closing words to the special session, which drew Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to New York for the opening days.

At the end, Gromyko delivered an attack on U.S. Middle East policy and vowed continued economic and military support to the Arab countries.

Goldberg denounced as false charges by Gromyko that the United States was to blame for failure of the assembly to achieve concrete results. And he also pledged that despite Arab hostility, the United States "will make a full contribution in support of regional cooperation in the Middle East."

The vote on the adjournment resolution was 63 to 26, with 27 abstentions.

ARABS BITTER

Arab countries voted against the adjournment resolution, reflecting their bitterness over what they interpreted as an attempt to cover up failure to achieve any kind of success in dealing with the aftermath of the Israeli-Arab war.

The lineup found the Soviet bloc countries opposed to the Arabs and voting yes with the United States and Britain. France abstained.

The outcome was a defeat for the Soviet Union, which had asked for the emergency session to obtain condemnation of Israel as an aggressor. The result was highly satisfactory to the United States, which had opposed holding the special session and argued that the issue should be kept in the Security Council.

The speech by Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika was typical of the Arab reaction to the windup of the session.

He said the assembly had failed to achieve any real result and added: "I do not see how in the light of this failure my delegation can countenance a camouflaging of its in a resolution."

The assembly took a recess at 6:30 p.m. and returned at 8 p.m. to vote on the adjournment resolution.

The sponsors revised the text of the adjournment resolution to include a reference to resolutions adopted and proposals discussed at the emergency session, and to note that the council is already occupied with the Middle East issue.

Some delegates had objected that a specific request to the council to resume consideration was not necessary. But the resolution still specified that the council should take up the tense Middle East problem as a matter of urgency.

Area Of City Blacked Out By Failure

An electrical failure hit parts of Northeast Monroe Friday night, plunging numerous homes and businesses into darkness and forcing postponement until tonight of the opening of a Little Theater play.

Striking the "College, Lamy lane, Bon Air Drive areas," Monroe Utilities Commission officials said the hour - long power failure "was the result of a short in a power line caused by a tree limb which fell on the line on Bon Aire Drive."

Just as we were about to begin the show the theater went into darkness," Bill Blythe president of the Little Theater said.

Located on Lamy Lane at the fringe of the effected area, the theater was filling with people for an opening night's performance when the lights went out 'just' 10 minutes before our 8:15 curtain" Blythe said.

The area effected included the campus of Northeast State College. Workmen traced their way to what they described as a "green limb lying across one of our main power lines."

Facing the problem of rescheduling their opening performance, officials at the Little Theatre said tonight's "Half - a - Sixpence" performance will go on as scheduled.

Those present for Friday's aborted performance were refunded their money or given tickets for another presentation of the musical comedy.

Monroe police said that there were no reports of violence or accidents in the effected area during the brief blackout

National Guard Ordered Into Tense Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — National Guardmen moved into the racially troubled North Side of Minneapolis Friday night as fire broke out in the area for the third night in a row.

A two-alarm fire struck St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church and school only a few blocks from the site of three North Side fires Thursday night.

Officials were unable to say immediately whether there was any connection with racial violence that sparked wholesale fire bombing Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Guardmen, called out by Gov. Harold LeVander to preserve order already had taken up standby positions in the North Side area after assembly at the city's armory.

Mayor Arthur Naftalin asked for 300 soldiers to spell weary policemen. LeVander doubled the number in granting the request.

In adjacent St. Paul police were riding four to a car and were armed with shotguns. No violence was reported, however.

The Minneapolis North Side has been the scene of rock throwing, car tipping and wholesale fires for two nights. The Fire Department said 33 alarms were answered during a four-hour period Thursday night and early Friday, and damages totaled more than $500,000.

Minneapolis has a Negro population of less than 3 per cent but many are concentrated in semi-slum sections of the North Side. It is an area of old frame homes, some shared by several families. It is not a section of big tenements.

Negro spokesmen cite living conditions and lack of job opportunities as linked to the outbreak. But Naftalin said "Ninety-nine per cent of the Negro community are terribly distressed by these incidents. The people behind them are beyond our reach."

The Democratic mayor's call for troops and the Republican governor's doubling of his bid came at mid-day Friday when the area was relatively quiet. Both nighttime outbreaks have been post midnight affairs, soon put in order by police shows of force.

The police have yet to fire their first shot," Naftalin said in praising their restraint.

The governor canceled all trips and appointments through Sunday, to keep in touch with developments. He said

"I want the citizens of Minnesota to be fully aware that rampant lawlessness and bloodshed will not be allowed to exist in Minneapolis, or any city in this state. The life, property and personal safety of our people must and will be protected",

Tshombe Must Return

ALGIERS (AP) — The Algerian Supreme Court ruled Friday that Congolese ex-premier Moise Tshombe must return to the Congo where he is condemned to die before a firing squad for high treason.

His transfer from an Algerian military stockade to the Congo is expected to be secret to frustrate any attempt by white mercenaries or others to free him by force.

"For us he is a dead man," Congo President Joseph D Mobutu told newsmen Friday in Kinshasa.

"Tshombe was judged and sentenced to death by our courts."

Tshombe, who led the Katanga Province secession from the central Congo government in 1960, looked grim and worried as the court branded him "a common criminal" and approved the Congo's extradition request. He was condemned by a Congolese military court March 13.

Suave, Sardonic & Sinister Roles

Unexpected Heart Ill Kills Basil Rathbone

NEW YORK (AP) — Basil Rathbone, the stage and movie star who excelled in the portrayal of the suave, the sardonic and the sinister gentleman, died unexpectedly Tuesday of a heart attack. He was 75.

For seven years, midway in his career as a Hollywood star, long was familiar on radio, television and recordings.

BASIL RATHBONE

"I played Sherlock Holmes for seven years," he once said, "and nobody thought I could do anything else. They put you in a shell and the shell goes off for a time . . . and then you're just left in it."

Rathbone came to America in 1932, the year after his success in London debut in "The Taming of the Shrew."

He was a Kilted Scottish soldier in World War I, and after the war he gained stature as a supporting actor in Shakespearean plays.

Rathbone's first movie was "The Masked Bride" in 1929. He achieved stardom with the advent of talkie movies. He was the suave and sinister villain in "Captain Blood" in 1935.

Anti-Rackets Measure Is Approved By Senate

Most lawmakers expressed confidence in McKeithen's statements that he would use existing state police authority in cases of violence, and an anti-violence amendment to the bill never really got off the ground.

The bill carries a $250,000 appropriation to finance the commission although the nine members will only receive $50 per diem, plus 10 cents a mile traveled on official business.

Official business will apparently be determined by the governor.

The backbone of the commission, however, will be the paid investigators. McKeithen has repeatedly used the words "former FBI agent" in his description of his top under cover man.

In other legislative action Friday, the House passed a resolution increasing by $250 the value of an automobile an old age recipient may own.

The resolution by Rep. James Smith, Union parish, urges the State Department of Public Welfare to change the maximum automobile value from $1,250 to $1,500 when use is by one person. The increase requested by the Legislature ups the maximum value of other resources exclusive of home from $1,500 to $1,750 for one person and from $2,500 to $2,750 for two or more persons.

A resolution by Lafayette Parish GOP Rep. Roderick Miller praised Richland Parish Rep. Benny Christian for his appearance at an LSU forum this week to defend a 1967 legislative act that prevents state funds at colleges from going to a communist or atheist.

Christian who co-authored the bill with Tallulah Sen. Charles Brown, defended the law before a student crowd of over 80. He was booed and hissed several times.

Plane Crash Buries Motor In Jetliner

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The collision of a Piedmont Airliner and a light plane left an engine of the smaller craft buried in the belly of the jet, it was learned Friday.

Investigators found the left engine of the twin-engined Cessna 310 still embedded in the fuselage of the 727 jet after both planes plunged to earth over the south end of Asheville-Hendersonville, N.C., airport Wednesday. Eighty-two persons were killed.

Daring Rescue In Vietnam Is Told

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A U.S. Navy pilot was shot down deep in North Vietnamese territory this week, setting in motion one of the most daring rescues of the war. The following dispatch recounts how the rescue was accomplished and tells of the courage and skill of the men who helped save the downed pilot.)

By RICHARD V. OLIVER

Aboard the Oriskany (UPI)—The sun was still high in the flak and smoke-filled skies over North Vietnam when U.S. Navy pilot Demetrio Verich prepared to return to base, aboard this aircraft carrier in the Tonkin Gulf.

Lt. Cmdr. Verich, 35, of Laona, Wis., had just completed a bombing run in his F8 Crusader jet when he was hit by a surface-to-air missile.

"Everything broke loose," he recalled later. But Verich was more than familiar with the procedure for such emergencies. Last year during a combat mission he had been downed and rescued.

Without hesitation the pilot ejected. While descending he saw his aircraft crash in flames.

He had landed 30 miles south of Hanoi in rugged terrain, steep and jagged and shale-like. He headed for the high ground and found a cave as darkness fell. But in the distance he could hear enemy troops and barking dogs searching for him.

"I figured our planes would return in the morning," he said later.

Verich was certain they would be back. And it is this kind of knowledge that makes it easier for a man to risk his life every day.

Aboard the Oriskany the word spread quickly: "Butch" Verich is down. "We'll get him—we got too get him back," said a young pilot who had taken part in the same bombing mission.

Yet each man knew the probability of finding and rescuing a downed pilot, a stranger in hostile territory, was close to nil.

"You get a kind of sick feeling. It's because it's so much more difficult to find him over land," said Lt. (J.G.) Glenn Byers of Evansville, Ind. "The guy you eat breakfast with, you may not eat dinner with."

The procedure for locating, protecting and removing a downed pilot seems simple—on paper.

A few moments after 5 a.m., four A4C Sky Hawks catapulted from the Oriskany's flight deck. The search for Butch Verich was on.

"We were over the beach shortly after 5 a.m. but we ran into a lot of flak," said Lt. Cmdr. Marvin Reynolds of Arabi, Ga., the man who eventually located Verich.

On his second pass over the area, Reynolds thought he had heard something on his radio. He had. "Tally ho! I've got a beeper," he reported to "Swaggerstick," the rescue control.

Verich, dozing, had been awakened by the sound of Reynolds' low-flying aircraft and he immediately began sending beeper signals via his emergency radio.

"Charley Horse one to Brownie One over," Reynolds called. No answer. But Reynolds decided to call in a helicopter anyway.

"No good. No good," the control destroyer radioed back. "You must go in and talk to him. (It was explained later that on occasion the North Vietnamese have used captured radios to lure rescuers into an ambush.) After refueling Reynolds returned to the area and this time he heard Verich's voice: "Brownie One to Charley Horse One over."

"I want to get a fix on you," Reynolds told Verich. "Give me a mark (beeper) when I'm directly over you." After a number of passes he had the rescue area pinpointed.

North Vietnamese ground fire was increasing. "Stay put," Reynolds radioed Verich. "Help is here. I'll have the 'helo' in about 30 minutes."

Reynolds then called in "Lovelace One"—Korean War-vintage A1H Spad aircraft—while "Big Mother," the helicopter, was being launched from a carrier. Meantime, Reynolds was joined by two fighter escorts.

Upon reaching the area, the Spads and the helicopter found the ground fire particularly heavy. Spad section leader Lt. Cmdr. Ronald (Foxy) Wolfe of Alameda, Calif., commented later: "It was like the Fourth of July, only it wasn't night time."

The crew of the helicopter spotted Verich sitting on a ledge on a tricky hill. The pilot was taken into the sling about 8:45 a.m. Making their exit from the area, the chopper and the Spads ran into 37mm and 57mm automatic weapons fire.

"As a parting gesture," Reynolds recalled, "I went in and did away with an automatic weapons site."

About halfway to the carrier, three Mig21s attacked the pads three Mig21s attacked the Spads was nearly out of fuel and was forced to return. Another jet pilot, Cmdr. Bryon Compton of Dempolis, Ala., was jumped by one of the Migs but lost him through some fancy maneuvering.

In all, the Spads and the helicopter spent about two hours and 40 minutes over North Vietnamese territory while engaged in the rescue.

"It's the greatest day of my life," said Verich as he stepped off the chopper to the deck of the Oriskany.

PAR Advises Parish Authority

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The authority of parishes to change forms of their government should be expanded, the Public Affairs Research Council said Friday.

The private research group urged changes in the power to reorganize which is granted in the constitutional home rule authority.

PAR recommended in an analysis that each parish review its organizational structure and consider the possibility of adopting a home rule charter.

Alienation Mood Develops

Black Powerites Plan To Aid Jailed Rioters

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Black Power leaders at a national unity conference announced Friday their first direct move to aid hundreds of Negroes arrested during recent rioting that left 25 persons dead in Newark.

A group, calling itself the Black Survival Committee, has organized to raise funds for legal defense of Negroes. Its leaders include black nationalists, delegates to the Black Power meeting and playwright LeRoi Jones, arrested in the riot area on charges of carrying weapons.

The committee set a news conference for today.

The Black Power conference delegates—their number swelling to 700—reflected a growing mood of alienation from white society as they sought ways to develop self-help programs.

At a news conference, Floyd B. McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said no person "in his sane mind" could predict there would be no further violence this summer.

Even as McKissick spoke, a lone white picket appeared in front of the conference hotel headquarters and was immediately knocked down by a Negro man, witnesses said.

Four police cars quickly arrived, witnesses reported, and officers with their weapons drawn took the white man from the scene. There were no arrests. Police said the picket was Louis Mazzuca, a disabled Newark veteran who had picketed the hotel Thursday. His sign had this message: "This Black Power conference is filled with black nationalists and anti-whites."

On Bimini, where Powell has been staying, however, sources close to him said he would not return to the New York area, but planned a news conference Saturday on Bimini.

Trashy Literature

United States Supreme Court decisions have benerally been in favor of pornography, trashy literature and other types of vulgarities and obscenities — in the name of freedom. Out of these decisions, however, has come Supreme Court support for "a limited censorship" of pornographic books to control the current flood of "cheap, exploitative junk." Clearly, some sort of censorship is necessary if we are to escape from absolute filth.

Max Lerner, noted journalist, announced he believes in the "limited censorship" as established by the Supreme Court.

At one time the high court stated that what might be shocking to most of the citizens of a certain community might not offend the people of another community to any great extent. There seemed to be some sentiment toward applying the degree of shock experienced by the people as a gauge by which literature or pictures could be declared obscene.

One argument that has been put up in favor of filthy pictures or books is that they are more realistic, since some people curse and use dirty words. This is about as foolish as it would be to say that all of us must be exposed to backyard outhouses because some people use them. We never elevate or reach any higher level of culture and refinement if we drink at a trough of slop. Cursing in picture shows and books still offends a great many people and it never adds anything to the strength of the characters or the stories. In fact, it detracts from that strength, because it makes the actor use dirty words instead of expressing his feelings by his acting.

Among Lerner's statements were:

"Freedom operates best when we can set up safeguards against the destructiveness of those who don't care about freedom but advocate freedom so they can exploit it.

"There are individuals who will be hurt if there are no restraints at all against publication: children who are forced by social pressures into unhealthy . . . activity; adults who are psychologically disturbed; and others who are walking a thin line in their search for selfhood and might easily be pushed over into a whirling confusion about their sexual identity.

"I draw the line separating the obviously cheap, exploitative junk from serious literature by serious writers.

"The best compromise between freedom of the press and protection of susceptible individuals is one that bans a book appealing predominantly to prurient interest, with no literary value and utterly without social importance."

Lerner said recent Supreme Court decisions were geared to recognition of established critics' judgment as to the "substantial literary value" of a book.

The syndicated columnist criticized local civic action committees, terming their call for censorship "both dangerous and potentially a cause of chaos." "Writing then," he said, "would be an ordeal of guessing about local censorship and publishing would be one of the most dangerous occupations in society."

Probably no two people in the world would agree exactly on a detailed censorship system. Lerner's call for some sort of unity in censorship has merit, yet we know that even if a nationwide censorship committee were named its members would be subjected to the strongest kind of political and other pressures. Censorship would depend on who were members of the committee and on the personal views of each member.

As far as we know, no great hardship was ever worked upon anyone through the operations of the former local censorship committees. In most cities and towns they kept both books and pictures fairly clean and free of filthy language and indecent scenes. The Supreme Court really helped to promote filth by ruling in favor of pornography and filthy printed or spoken words. Best results, in all probability, would have been obtained if the higher courts had refused to hear appeals or had merely affirmed lower court rulings.

The damage along that line has already been done, however, and now there seems no doubt that a uniform system must be worked out.

One danger we see in a national censorship committee is that writers who had fame because their works actually possessed some of the elements of greatness, along with filth, might be given a monopoly in obscenities merely because of the successes of their works. Some of the notoriously filthy writers have won literature awards. We hold that our citizenry should not be washed in filth even though there might be some gold mixed with the water and slime.

There is a little hope of returning to cleaner literature and moving pictures in the fact that people in this country not only are turning more conservative again but are "fed up" with indecencies.

If we are to have a national censorship committee, let's hope it won't be ruled by the political powers that be in Washington and let us also hope the members will be of the kind that will not permit people to be immersed in putrification even by noted and capable writers.

Our 'Divided House'

If the Bibical statement, "a house divided against itself shall surely fall," can be taken at face value, what will be the fate of the United States within the next few years, if we continue our present course?

Some of the things coming to our attention which show the Washington administration is acting against itself are enough to change the Statue of Liberty into Venus de Milo by shocking its arms off.

Here are four flagrant examples in which the United States government appears to be seeking self-destruction.

1. American servicemen are reportedly being sent into the Congo to try to deal with the mess there, in spite of the fact that practically all of the so-called "hawks" and "doves" in this country and other people as well are jumping up and down and saying: "Don't get us involved in the Congo. We already have too much on our hands in Vietnam."

2. A newspaper headline said, "United States is still training Arabs," although we are supplying Israel with vast quantities of planes, weapons and munitions.

3. President Johnson reportedly made promises to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin that the United States would keep open Russian supply routes to the North Vietnamese and would not bomb important supply bases in North Vietnam.

4. Insider's Newsletter said President Johnson's Vietnam policy has undergone a change and that he has retreated from a "win-the-war-by-1968" stance in March. White House observers say the President has decided to slow down the war to reduce casualties during the 1968 election year. The shift was telegraphed by Walt W. Rostow, civilian "hawk," who talked of a "modified enclave theory" while Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was in Saigon. One Midwestern Republican spoke of it as "almost an acceptance of the Vietnam war as part of the United States scene, like taxes or the national debt." Are we doing ourselves any good in an unending war in which our servicemen are dying — without even any plans for bringing the war to an end?

Senator Soaper Says

It is headline news when a baseball player pitches a no-hitter and loses, but it's pretty much the story of every day's business as a man tells about it to his wife.

George Wallace is against "theoreticians," and we must admit that he makes them sound almost sinister to have under one's bed as a communist.

Eying Four State Primaries

Remaining 10 Contests Without Meaning

IT IS NOW quite evident that Presidential primaries will have any meaning in only four States insofar as the Republicans are concerned in 1968 and in no States at all for the Democrats.

There will be such primaries in 14 States and the District of Columbia. In the big States Republican favorite sons will shut out Presidential candidates who come from elsewhere. Governor James A. Rhodes, for example, will have the 58 delegates from Ohio, Governor Raymond P. Shafer the 64 from Pennyslvania.

For the Democrats there will be a stand - in for President Johnson (probably Senator Stephen M. Young) in Ohio. Regardless of how the matter is handled the facts of political life are that President Johnson will also have the Pennsylvania Democratic delegation, as any President in the White House and eligible for another try would have. (There was not even a roll call in the 1964 Democratic National Convention and it may be that way in 1968.)

SO THE 1968 Presidential primaries are for the birds as far as the Democrats are concerned, and for the favorite sons in the case of the Republicans except in Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon and New Hampshire.

Consider also how many National Convention delegates either former Vice President Richard M. Nixon or Governor George W. Romney would reap by winning all the 4 primaries and their delegates — 8 in New Hampshire, 30 in Wisconsin, 16 in Nebraska and 18 in Oregon. That is a total of 72. In California, where Governor Ronald Reagan has waved outsiders away, 86 Reagan - bound delegates will be elected.

New Hampshire's first-in-the-Nation Presidential primary on March 12 is being eyed as strictly a test between Nixon and Romney. They are likely to be the only candidates and the winner would be off to a good start. The polls show and politicians think now that Nixon will win it.

THE WISCONSIN'S primary on April 2, Nebraska's on May 14 and Oregon's on May 28 all have the same sort of mechanism. For years Oregon has had an everybody - must - run system. A designated State official puts on the ballot all recognized White House prospects. The only way one so chosen could get off the ballot was to sign an affadavit saying he was not a candidate. In 1968 Wisconsin and Nebraska are using the Oregon plan.

Governor Reagan has said he will not remove his name if it is placed on the ballot in any of the three. Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York has said he will. It is likely, therefore, that the names of Nixon, Romney, Reagan and perhaps such added starters as Rhodes of Ohio, Shafer of Pennsylvania, Senator Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Governor John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, Senator John G. Tower of Texas, and others, will go on the ballots and muddy up the situation so that there will be no clear cut choice in this trio of States.

NIXON WON the Wisconsin primary without a contest in 1960. But Romney is from the friendly neighboring State of Michigan and Percy from the friendly neighboring state of Illinois. It could be a hard one to try to pick the winner.

Presidential primaries are of Republican and Midwestern origin. Such progressive Republicans as the elder LaFollette of Wisconsin and Cummins and Dolliver of Iowa had the proclaimed purpose of breaking the dominance of delegates hand - picked in State conventions, and giving the rank-and-file a voice.

The first primary ever held was in North Dakota, where Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., as a Presidential candidate in 1912, defeated Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft. LaFollette also carried Wisconsin. But Roosevelt swept most of the Presidential primaries and Taft won the nomination by the votes of convention-chosen delegates.

NORTH DAKOTA and many of the States, which originally held Presidential primaries, abandoned them. Wisconsin, Oregon and Nebraska will be holding their 15th quadrennial Presidential primaries in 1968. They have been more often than not unsuccessful Presidential tryouts.

Of the three Wisconsin has always attracted the most attention. It is the biggest and offers a test of both urban and rural sentiment. Wendell Willkie, trying for a second nomination in 1944, considered the Wisconsin delegation "in the bag." He failed to win a single delegate there and withdrew from the race. Governor Thomas E. Dewey went on to take the Presidential nomination.

Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota looked like a promising Presidential candidate in 1944 until Dewey stopped him in the Oregon primary. Presidential primaries in Nebraska, most conservative Midwest State, have never been very exciting.

IN THE WISCONSIN Democratic Presidential primary in 1960 Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts defeated Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, 476,024 to 366,753, and got a big boost toward the nomination. The 842,777 for the combined Kennedy and Humphrey slates compared with 339,383 for Nixon. But Kennedy got only 830,000 in the November election, losing the State to Nixon by 65,000 votes.

Senator Estes Kefauver went to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1952 as the front runner with 257½ delegates, 174 of them won in primaries. The convention drafted Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

Book By Galbraith Worthy Of Warning

IF THE GOVERNMENT'S scheme of warning labels applied to the publishing of books, John Galbraith's "The New Industrial State" would have to carry a boxed notice on the spine: Caution — Galbraith-reading may be hazardous to your reason. This is a king-sized work; the argument filters slowly. The flavor of a fully - packed mind comes through. Galbraith reads good, like an economist should.

But what economics! In this just published work, the old professor peers at all the most cherished ideas of American capitalism as if he were candling eggs: All fragile. All sterile. What we fondly describe as free enterprise, he submits, is neither free nor even enterprising. The marketplace is a myth. Consumers are sheep. Top executives of great corporations are ornaments, like doormen. In sum, ours is not a free economy: it is a planned economy—and the planning is done for the mutual advantage of the state and the corporate "technostructure," with a view toward protecting the security of both.

NOW, THE difficulty in challenging these heretical ideas, especially in the scope of a few hundred words, is that each of them contains some measure of truth. Beyond question, the five or six hundred largest corporations do constitute a dominant force in the economy. The significance of government defense contracts is doubtless immense. Advertising surely plays an important role in creating demand where demand did not exist before. The truism that there is more to life than merely making money is as old as philosophy.

Yet pecks of part-truths, even the most plausible part-truths, do not necessarily make a bushel of whole grain. What Galbraith has done, in this cheerfully disarming book, is to harvest only those observations that support his thesis; the rest he simply disdains. Thus, he makes a fine case history of Ford's successful Mustang, to demonstrate how a producing organization can reach forward to control a market and "to bend the consumers to its needs." The Edsel disappears in a gassy footnote.

IN GALBRAITH'S cynical view, the customer is no longer sovereign if indeed he ever was; he is more nearly a slave. He can be "managed." Indeed, the people generally "are becoming the servants in thought, as in action, of the machine we have created to serve us." But this is to wrap a husk of palpable truth about a kernel of arrant nonsense. The customer has a remarkable way of rising up to spit in his benefactor's eye. In the end, he is always right. Tastes change. New products emerge. Remember the sack dress? And who would have imagined, ten years ago, that Camel's hold on the cigarette market could be shaken?

The truth of the matter, or so it seems to me, is that our economy today is of course a "planned economy," in ways that it was not planned fifty or sixty years ago. Who doubts it? The market is not as "free" as it was in a nation of small towns and fledgling entrepreneurs. But this is to say merely that times change, which is not to say anything very striking.

THE NATURE of competition also has changed; the role of government has changed. But the professor who imagines that some invisible technostructure controls the boob consumer is simply in error; he has not bought a soap powder lately.

Assume the worst: Suppose we are to be "managed"? Is it better to be "managed" by 500 faceless agencies of government than by 500 soulless corporations? If Galbraith's views prevail, the power to manipulate taste — the power to control "the beauty, dignity, pleasure, and durability of life" — would pass from the private sector to the public sector. Confronting such a choice, most Americans, one suspects, would rather fight than switch.

Middle East Shows New Trouble Signs

FOR THOSE who saw the recent Israeli victories in the Middle East as an unadulterated setback for the Soviet Union, the events of the last week have come as a shock. For the complacent inaction of the United States has accelerated the pace of Soviet expansionism in the Arab world and planted seeds for new and even more fearsome problems in that cradle of wars and civilizations.

At the State Department and the White House, the euphoria of June has been replaced by the worries of July — and the possible panic of August. Diplomatically, the Soviet Union has looked not too good. But from a geopolitical sense, it has advanced a giant step. The vacuum created by the American withdrawal — and the insistence on strict legalisms which none of the other United Nations share — has given the Kremlin an opportunity such as it has not had since the days of the Czar.

Unless the Johnson Administration puts aside its overriding concern over domestic political advantage and begins to think in the broader terms of national survival, the Middle Eastern situation is bound to deteriorate badly. Under those circumstances, the Israelis may be compelled to act for themselves again. If they fail to do so, then the fat will really be in the fire.

WHAT IT BOILS down to is this, according to reliable sources here in Washington. The popular reaction to Israeli successes has led many Americans to believe that the trouble is over for another decade. In this, the people have been encouraged by Administration posturing and by the pundits who take their line less from the facts than from the White House.

The comforting view is to see the continued hostilities along the Suez Canal as the petering out of the major action. They are, however, but a curtain raiser for new adventures by the Soviets in the Middle East. Having lost some $2 billion in war material, the Kremlin is planning to recoup. While both sides fire at each other across the canal, the Soviets are replacing the weapons that were lost by the Egyptians in the Sinai peninsula.

There is, however, a marked difference between the Kremlin's method of doing this now and the means it employed after the 1956 Egyptian debacle. According to the best Intelligence available here, the Soviets are now organizing the Egyptian armed forces and commanding them down to battalion level. This means that in any new contest the Israelis will no longer be faced by the push-overs of the Egyptian army. Syria, too, is being reinforced in a like manner.

THE ISRAELIS are, of course, aware of this. They know that the Soviet Union intends to make colonies of Egypt and Syria, and to use them against the United States. The Israelis are not particularly worried about the Kremlin's colonization of North Africa. But they are more than upset by the build-up of a modern army, commanded by Soviet officers. With the United States ducking all responsibility, the alternative for the Israelis is to strike out again before the Soviet "experts" have whipped the Egyptian army into fighting shape.

This would force the United States into some kind of intervention, but at the worst time and under the worst circumstances. Before that comes about, the State Department and the President could take preventive action on the diplomatic level. If the Kremlin were informed, either privately or publicly, that the United States would not tolerate the creation of Soviet satellites in the Middle East — and if we made it quite clear that any shipments of arms to the Arab states would be met by American shipments to the Israeli government — the situation would change overnight.

NOT THAT Soviet long-range strategy would change. But the Kremlin's immediate strategy is to prevent an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation with the United States. Soviet military strategy, as their military planners have written with the explicitness of Mein Kampf, is based on the expansion of Soviet nuclear power and nuclear defenses to the point where the Kremlin could blackmail the West into submission.

Though Soviet nuclear power is roughly equal to that of the United States, in another five years it will have a substantial edge over this country. In a decade, it will be able to dictate terms, unless Secretary of Defense Robert Strange McNamara and the White House wake up from their Rip Van Winkle sleep. Until then, the Kremlin's men will pose as moderates. By turning the enemy's strategy against him, the United States can still preserve peace in the Middle East. But it must first make up its mind — and in the Johnson Administration, that's a condition of giant proportions.

BARRY GOLDWATER

Kennedy Plagiarizing Republican Platform

BOBBY KENNEDY has now joined Lyndon Johnson in the political sport of plagarizing the Republican Party platform, particularly the "extremist" platform of 1964.

While some Republicans denounce their party's platform for personal political advantage, and other Republicans simply ignore it for fear of being thought too conservative, the Democrats happily pick their way through the platform, appropriating what they want. Their own platforms have had nothing but socialism to offer for so long that they must seek elsewhere for practical solutions to today's problems — and for that the Republican platform cannot be beaten.

Bobby's plum from our platform is the long-standing Republican notion that the best way to solve problems is to get government out of the way, rather than put government in.

THE NEW YORK junior senator proposes to fight poverty by putting people to work — a proposal so radical, compared to the usual Democratic proposition, that it could almost get him kicked out of the party if he didn't own so much of it in his family's name.

He has suggested that private enterprise to be given incentives to build real jobs in blighted urban areas. One would be relief from certain taxation to make it practical to start businesses in areas that are short of jobs.

In making the proposal, Sen. Kennedy rightly said that current poverty programs of the Great Planned Society are "ineffective, inefficient and degrading."

UNFORTUNATELY there seems no real reason to believe that his latest proposal represents much more than a public relations shift in his image. He recognize that cities cannot be saved by government programs, but only by productive, creative, meaningful enterprises, cut to the capitalist measure that so far has liberated more men from poverty than any other system ever conceived on earth. The rest of the Kennedy political stance still leans firmly to the left.

The sad thing is not that a Kennedy has not been converted to capitalism, for that is a miracle beyond expectation, but that Republicans who presumably have never been anything but pro-capitalist have failed to make as much fuss about their proposals along these lines as have such Democrats as Bobby.

REPUBLICANS should turn to the pledges of their platform, which included many specific proposals for private capital and for tax incentives in bringing new economic strength into the cities. They easily could outpoint and outgun Bobby Kennedy and his colleagues when it comes to dollars-and-cents common sense solutions to problems which are said to be "social", but which invariably turn out to be challenges to individual initiative instead.

As things stand, it is sad to see Democrats making hay from seeds sown by Republicans.

A-Hem – Italy Drops Them

Rome (AP) — Keep skirts short or drop them long? Italian designers in fashion showings just concluded here stated the case for both sides.

London designers, in their shows this week, kept the hemline, for the most part, just above the knee, but there were some as much as four inches above it.

In Rome there were lots of drastic drops, with hemlines long enough to make the ankle the anatomical excitement.

But buyers were cautious about the drop and experienced fashion observers say this is merely a shock tactic to swing the pendulum away from the minis.

In practice skirts probably will now take their first cautious downward step to the knee.

All of which seems to prove right that old saying: "What goes up must come down."

When it comes to what women will actually wear, vital statistics to bear in mind are:

—Coats with small, snugly fitted tops and high highwayman collars or hussar neckbands.

—Waists stressed with belts.

—Shoulders small but resolutely squared.

—Skirts still easy but showing signs of less width.

The Italians predict a record coat season. Suits are definitely playing second fiddle.

As always from Italy, there's a big color and fabric story.

The monochromes are marching against the brilliant hues that the Italians themselves launched some seasons ago.

Brown is the "in" shade for autumn at its smartest when teamed with white or black.

Balestra made the point forcefully when he proclaimed in his program note: "Let's put an end to shrieking colors and fashion for 15-year-olds."

For day, fabrics will be husky and hairy or fleecy with a plushy pile.

Velvet will be much in view for formal evenings, romantically teamed with ruffles of white lace.

By night, clinging crepe gowns will put the hard daytime look into eclipse.

For big evenings, jewels can be left at home. Dresses will be loaded with their own built-in beading in precious-looking stones.

The French will have the final fashion say when Paris collections start Monday.

Sen. Stennis Offers Bill To Aid Needy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Emergency legislation to provide food and medical services where needed to prevent death or suffering was introduced Friday by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss.

A Senate subcommittee has heard testimony from a group of doctors that they found untreated illness and widespread hunger, sometimes verging on starvation, in Mississippi, particularly among Negroes.

"Personally," Stennis said, "I know any claims of widespread starvation in Mississippi overstate the true facts, and to that extent are misleading.

The Stennis bill would authorize $10 million a year "to provide food and medical services to any individual in any state whenever such action is required to prevent the loss of such individual's life or to avoid suffering caused by lack of food or medical attention."

"If people are actually suffering from lack of food and medical assistance," Stennis told the Senate, "what they need is help, not talk and publicity."

And, he said, "they need to be made well, not made the subject of partisan politics."

At the same time, he said such aid should not be given to those capable of taking care of themselves.

"An attitude has grown up in the minds of thousands of people who believe it is not necessary any more to try to get a job and earn their way," he said.

Soviet Office Likes Summit

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's top Foreign Ministry official in Moscow said Friday it was good that President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin were able to hold summit talks last month.

First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov made the statement at a meeting with Japanese Foreign Minister Takeo Miki who is in Moscow on an official visit.

"The leaders of America and the Soviet Union had a meeting," Kuznetsov was reported as saying. "That was good."

This was the most positive official reaction to the Glassboro, N.J., summit conferences since Kosygin returned to Moscow.

Kuznetsov is heading the ministry while Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is attending the United Nations session in New York.

Haitian Quits Envoy Position

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The Haitian ambassador to Mexico, Jean Pierre Audain, who is also dean of the diplomatic corps, disclosed his resignation Friday. He said he plans to reside in Mexico.

Audain said he resigned because of concern over the situation of his country. He said he still considered himself a friend of President Francois Duvalier, but that he had advised him to be "less harsh." He added that Duvalier controls the Haitian masses "through a psychosis of fear" which blocks any criticism.

Audain said he cabled his resignation to Port Au Prince Thursday giving health as the reason but has not yet received a reply.

McNamara's Waiter Found To Be Leper

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Filipino waiter in Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's mess has been found to have leoprosy, the Pentagon's health chief said Friday.

However, "the possibility of any of you contracting this disease approaches zero," Dr. Shirley C. Fisk told the top officials who eat in the dining room's comprising McNamara's mess.

Some 85 senior Pentagon officials eat in the mess, which is on the third floor of the Pentagon.

Fisk, deputy assistant Secretary of Defense for health and medical matters, said in his memorandum that "within the past few days a case of leprosy has been diagnosed in one of our mess attendants."

A Pentagon spokesman said the mess attendant is a Filipino Navy enlisted man with 22 years of Navy service. He was not identified.

The mess attendant now is a patient at the Bethesda Naval Hospital in nearby Maryland.

Fisk told the members of the secretary's mess that the incubation period for leprosy varies between six and 20 years.

He said the disease normally is found in areas of the world bounded by the 30th latitudes north and south of the equator and also Hawaii, Japan, Korea, South China, South Africa and states bordering the Gulf of Mexico.

"Elsewhere, the disease disappears save in those individuals who, after living in the above locations, migrate into uninfected areas," Fisk said.

The Pentagon's medical chief quoted leprosy experts as telling him that "the possibility of infection under these circumstances approaches zero—one chance in a million."

Fisk said that treatment, by a drug of the sulfone family, is "effective and curative."

Gov. Wallace Recuperates At Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Alabama Gov. Lurleen Wallace, recovering from a cancer operation at M. D. Anderson Hospital, mixed business with pleasure Friday.

"In addition to conducting state business, Mrs. Wallace spent some time reading cards and letters, and admiring the flowers and gifts she has received," Dr. R. Lee Clark, M.D. Anderson director said.

Dr. Clark indicated the 40-year-old woman governor was out of bed Friday for the longest time since the 4½ hour operation July 10.

"She continues to gain strength daily," the doctor said.

While still limited to liquids, Dr. Clark said Mrs. Wallace is tolerating her diet well and it is gradually being increased.

A hospital spokesman said that any decision to begin her on solid foods would be dependent on continued toleration of the liquids.

The initiation of a solid food diet, however, would mark a giant step in her recovery.

During the operation, doctors removed about six inches of Mrs. Wallace's colon which was looped around the lemon-sized malignant tumor.

Man Hurt In Wreck Dies

Joe Paul Fields, 35, of 401 N. 3rd St., Monroe, died at 10 a.m. Friday in E. A. Conway Hospital as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident near Rayville at 11:20 a.m. Wednesday.

Services will be conducted by the Wood - Dunning Funeral Home in Plainview, Tex.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Mickey, Fields, Monroe; one step - daughter, Miss Bana Rhymes, Plainview, Tex.; and his Mother, Mrs. Mable Fields, Lubbock, Tex.

Local Girl On Hiking Trip In Great Smokies

A local girl is presently on a 13-day hiking expedition in the Great Smokey Mountains under the sponsorship of Tanasi, a Tennessee Girl Scout Council established camp.

Susan Martin, a member of Troop 15 and a 1967 graduate of Neville High School, is packing 25 pounds of supplies on which she is required to live.

She prepared for the trip which runs from July 16 through July 29 by walking up and down the Ouachita River levee with 25 pounds strapped to her back. Miss Martin also participated in an overnight back packing trip to Drew Farm sponsored by Troop 15.

Girl scouting is just one of her many activities. She is one of the President's Scholars invited to the White House and has assisted in translating new math into Braille.

She plans to major in mathematics at Oberlin College in Ohio.

Freak Mishap Fatal To Man

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP)—A coroner's ruling of death by massive internal injuries has been entered in the case of Donald Frederick, 28, of Abbeville, who was involved in a freak accident in the Gulf Thursday.

The Coast Guard in New Orleans said Frederick was on the bow of a boat alongside an oil rig, about 30 miles offshore, while the boat was heaving up and down in a heavy swell. The action smashed Frederick against the oil rig.

A Coast Guard helicopter brought him to a Morgan City hospital.

Negro, White Repeat Vows

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Negro man and a white woman joined hands Friday in Tennessee's first legal interracial marriage since Reconstruction in a brief ceremony on the steps of the Metropolitan Nashville Courthouse.

A Negro minister pronounced Herman McDaniel, 29, a dishwasher, and Joyce Prescott, 34, man and wife and the couple embraced and kissed under the hot sun before a curious crowd of Negroes and whites. It was the first marriage for both.

At the culmination of the ceremony, as the couple kissed, someone in the crowd murmured, "Mercy, God."

The couple last week was denied a marriage license by the office of Davidson County Court clerk, but an opinion by the state attorney general's office cleared the way for the wedding. Applying again, the McDaniels received their license Friday a short time before the wedding.

Marines Say Promotions From Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine officials said Friday President Johnson's recent executive order speeding promotions of Marine lieutenants to captain stemmed from the expansion of the Marine Corps rather than from any heavy loss of captains in Vietnam.

These Marine officials said however that between 40 and 50 captains have been killed in Marine fighting in Vietnam.

As they explained it a shortage of captains developed when nearly 1,300 officers of that rank were promoted to major and more than 1,100 Marine captains chose to drop their military careers and return to civilian life in 1966.

They said a captain, normally between 24 and 30 years of age, reaches a "moment of truth" when he decides whether to remain in the service as a career or oft his uniform and make a move toward a civilian career.

Food For Thought

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — A state-run Budapest restaurant has been slapped editorially by the newspaper Magyar Nemzet for trying to outdraw its competitors with a striptease show of "undoubtable erotic effect." Better, the paper said, to improve service and dish out higher quality food.

Unusual Plane Will Be Object Of Story

BASTROP (Special) — Associate editor of Flying Magazine, Archie Trammell, is scheduled to land at the Bastrop Airport this morning, weather permitting.

Trammell is making a special trip to Bastrop to flight test and take pictures of one of the local planes, a neo - classic Johnson Rocket, which is owned by Carl Bennett of Oak Grove, and Lenard Pratt of Bastrop. He will write a feature on the plane for an issue of Flying Magazine.

The aircraft is number seven of a total of 18 of its kind, only four of which are still flying. It was designed and built in Fort Worth, Tex., by R. S. "Pop" Johnson. It crusies at 190 m.p.h. on a 190 horse power engine and is one of few civilian aircrafts ever built that doesn't have to be slowed down in rough air.

The Johnson Rocket was built in 1946 and experts say that it is 30 or 40 years ahead of its time. It has some modern features that even few modern aircrafts do not have. These features include three - way trim, rudder, aileron and elevator Zeus Air lock fastners on cowl and fairings, the entire cowl and all fairings can be removed in five minutes; it is extra safe in that it is stressed for 9 plus G's up or down and will stand twice as much as any pilot without G suit; and has military quadrant and ultra-modern instruments.

Two other well - known aviation figures will also be on hand for the pictures and feature. They are Leo Overturf of Mena, Ark., who recently sold the aircraft to Bennett and Pratt, and Bill Desruisseauz, who has flown down from Lawarence, Mass., to purchase the plane.

U.S. Plans Publicizing Arms Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering making public its weapons shipments to Mideast countries in a move to help curb the arms race there.

Disclosing this Friday, State Department officials said also that while Soviet airlifting of arms to Egypt and Algeria has stopped, Russian weapons shipments by sea appear to be continuing.

The Soviets have not accepted U.S. proposals for an agreement on holding down arms deliveries to the Middle East, including public registration of such shipments with the United Nations.

Nonetheless, Washington is giving active consideration to U.S. registration with the United Nations of its arms shipments to the Middle East even without immediate agreement from others to do likewise.

President Johnson proposed public reporting of delivery of military arms to the Middle East in his June 19 speech outlining U.S. peace goals for the area. He said the United Nations should "call upon its members" to do this.

U.S. strategists favoring publication of U.S. weapons shipments without similar action by other suppliers contend that the publicity might induce the others to do likewise. They also say greater stability would be brought to the region if the nations there know what their rivals are receiving in arms from outside.

On the other hand, department officials stated, many Middle East countries are highly sensitive and if the United States were the only arms supplier which chose to operate in the full glare of publicity, this could restrict the freedom of U.S. action in this field.

With Moscow having poured in large resupplies of weaponry to its Arab friends like Egypt, Syria and Algeria, requests from other Arab states feeling threatened by this buildup have been arriving in Washington.

The officials said that in this situation the United States is actively beginning to consider lifting its freeze on weapons deliveries imposed seince the Arab-Israeli war

Israel, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Tunisia, Morocco, Lebanon, Iran and Turkey have obtained U.S. arms in the past and requests from some of these countries are pending now.

Coeds Set To Assist Freshman

RUSTON (Special) — Coed counselors named to assist freshman girls enrolling for the fall quarter beginning at Louisiana Tech Sept. 6 include 19 from Ouachita Parish.

The advisory project is under the direction of Anne Terry of Winnfield, representing the Associated Women Students.

Dormitories for freshmen will be open at 1 p.m. Sept. 3. Following orientation activities Sept. 4-5, registration is scheduled for Sept. 6-7. The fall session will start a year - round system of four 12-week quarters at Tech.

The Ouachita counselors are as follows:

Calhoun — Norma J. Slocum and Carolyn Taylor.

Monroe — Camille Carso, Susan Cockran, Carolyn E. Cox, Patricia Halley, Elaine Hanna, Kay Joyce, Margaret Miles, Nancy O'Kuma, Linda Porter, Dot Rambin, Kathy Shaver and Donna Spargo.

West Monroe — Lila Bamburg, Clara D. Drew, Barbara Duncan, Mary Einhorn and Sharon F. Parsons.

Judge Makes Example Of Four Youths

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — Making the punishment fit the crime, Ashley County Judge W. T. Higginbotham sentenced four Crossett juveniles to cemetery maintenance for a tombstone-tipping spree.

In Juvenile Court this week, two - year suspended sentences were imposed on each of the four minors charged with vandalism in Crossett's Lakewood Cemetery and the Carter Cemetery on U. S. 82 earlier this month.

The youths, along with a 21-year-old Navy veteran, were charged with turning over appoximately 25 grave monuments in the Lakewood Cemetery and 10 to 14 more in the family Carter Cemetery, eight miles east of Crossett.

In lieu of the penitentiary sentences, the boys were put on probation for two years, according to Ovid Switzer, city attorney, who released the results of the trials, from which the press was excluded.

The probation includes two stipulations, Switzer said: a curfew and mandatory cemetery cleanup each week until school starts.

Natchez Girl Wins Contest For Talent

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Fifty - four pretty girls made their last preliminary appearance Friday night before the six judges who must pick the winner of the annual Miss Mississippi contest.

Following the third preliminary round, the judges will narrow the field before the final judging Saturday night.

Preliminary winners are not announced for evening dress competition until the last night, thus keeping all contestants in the running for the honor.

Insurance Flood Bill Faring Well

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for a bill authorizing federal participation in a flood insurance program are excellent, an aide to Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., said Friday.

Williams, sponsor of the measure, feels that there are no major obstacles standing in the way of Senate Banking Committee approval of the measure, once members can be assembled for an executive session, the aide said.

The committee's subcommittee on securities was scheduled to consider the bill this week, but the meeting was canceled.

The aide said it is hoped that a subcommittee meeting to vote on the measure can be arranged for Aug. 1.

A House Banking Committee spokesman said no definite plans have been made for hearings on a House version of the proposal. Several bills proposing a joint venture by the government and private insurance companies into the field of flood insurance, notably one sponsored by Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., have been introduced in the House.

The Senate Securities subcommittee completed its hearings on the Williams bill in June.

Both the Williams and Boggs bills embody recommendations made by the administration after a year-long study by experts of the Department of Housing and Urban Affairs.

At present, insurance companies write little or no flood insurance, since high premium costs make it unattractive to individuals and heavy losses in time of disasters make the companies unenthusiastic.

A program of flood insurance would be of particular interest to coastal regions subject to hurricanes and tidal storms, and to river country where floods occur due to heavy rains.

Knees Of Blue Doom Miniskirts

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The miniskirt is doomed, a Mexican fashion designer reports, not by bluenoses but by blue knees.

Armando Valdez said, following a trip to New York, that American girls will never put up with another winter of freeze around the knees to stay in style.

Hemlines will drop with the temperatures, he predicted, and the miniskirt fad will be killed off for good by the climate in the northern United States.

Aaron Shatters Course Record

Winless Pro Has 4-Shot PGA Lead

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Title-starved Tommy Aaron, without a victory in seven years as a pro, exploded nine birdies—eight of them in the space of 10 holes—and somersaulted over golf's glamour boys into a four-stroke lead Friday at the halfway point of the PGA championships.

The 6-1, 180 pound former Walker Cup star from Gainesville, Ga., also had a phenomenal string of ten 3s, five in a row, on his card in shooting a course record 65 for a 36-hole score of 135.

As both dark-horse Dave Hill, the first round leader, and favorite Jack Nicklaus faded in the sweltering 90 - degree heat, Aaron leaped four shots ahead of a trio including first round leader Dave Hill, Dan Sikes and long-shot Don Bies, a 29-year-old assistant teaching pro from Seattle, tied at 139.

The "white fang"—the borrowed, white-headed putter that carried him to the U.S. Open crown last month—deserted Nicklaus, whose opening 67 had put him only a shot back of Hill's pace setting 66.

Jack three-putted the first hole from 15 feet, missed a number of makeable putts for pars and birdies and finished with a three-over-par 75 for 142.

That put him seven strokes back of he lead going into the climatic final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday's third round will be televised by ABC from 6 p.m., EDT, to 7:30 p.m. Sunday's final will be aired for two hours starting at 7 p.m. EDT.

Arnold Palmer, who is bidding for the PGA crown he's never won, remained in contention with a 71 for 141, but he wasn't a happy man.

"The course lost all its character today," he complained. "It was too dry out there. The ball is going so far, you can't control it. I was hitting three-woods off the tee to keep from going through the fairways and it still was going too far."

Sikes almost collapsed at the 13th hole, and emergency oxygen was rushed to him. He recovered enough to bridle the 14th and 17th and finished with a 70, but he had to receive additional treatment in the men's locker room.

"I was tapped out—I don't know when I ever felt so bad," he said afterward.

Bies shot a steady 70—including three birdies and a single bogey — before the 436 yard, par 72 Columbine course was drenched with sizzling 90-degree heat and sapping humidity.

Hill, with four bogeys on his card, sank a 25-foot putt on the 16th and finished with a 73.

"I was beating the high grass again today," Hill lamented, speaking of his numberous excursions into the high rough. "I'm playing like a four handicapper."

Outside of the leaders—Aaron at 135, nine under par; Bies, Sikes and Hill, at 139, five under; Palmer at 141, three under, and Nicklaus at 142, two under —no one else was in a threatening position.

Six players were tied at 143. They were big Mike Souchak, Doug Sanders, Dudley Wysong, Dick Sikes (no relation to Dan) and Bill Bisdorf.

Sanders had to knock in a hole-in-one with a fur-iron on the 194 yard 16th to crash even with this select company.

Defending champion Al Geiberger, 73-71, was tied with Bob Goalby, 70-74, at 144 and Bill Casper, the two-time Open king, rallied with a 70 for 145. He was tied with a group including Julius Boros, Mason Rudolph, Frank Beard, Gene Littler and Don Massengale.

Aaron, Boyer Pair Trim Card Lead To One Game

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Henry Aaron lashed a two-run home run and Clete Boyer hit a bases-empty shot in the fourth inning as the Atlanta Braves tumbled the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 Friday night.

Mack Jones walked to lead off the fourth and Aaron followed with his 24th homer, a line drive into the center field garden. One out later Boyer connected for his 13th.

Phil Niekro, who has lost four games, picked up his sixth victory as he scattered six hits. The knuckleballer gave up a double by Roger Maris and a run scoring single by Orlando Cepeda, then never allowed more than one hit in any inning.

Boyer drove in another run in the eighth with a sacrifice fly after Aaron led off with a single and moved up on Rico Carty's hit.

Wimby Ace Upset In Clay Semifinals

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rising star Rosemary Casals shot down world ranking player Billie Jean King 6-4, 6-4 in the semifinals of the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament Friday and moved into the finals Sunday against defending champion Nancy Richey.

Miss Richey, San Angelo, Tex., defeated top seeded Australian Kerry Melville 6-1, 7-5 with the help of a disputed line call in the second set.

Top-seeded Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., advanced to the semifinals in the men's singles with an easy 6-1, 6-3, 7-5 victory over Australian John Cooper, third-seeded foreigner.

Ashe faced the winner of a match between George Seewagen of New York and Ron Barns of Brazil scheduled for later in the day.

Miss Melvill, top seeded foreigner, needed one point to break Miss Richey's service and take a 6-5 lead in the second set. She apparently got it when a lineswoman ruled her baseline shot was in bounds. But Miss Richey protested and pointed out a mark left on the court by the ball a few inches outside the line. The lineswoman then reversed her original call with the result that the game was tied at deuce. Miss Richey then took the game with ground strokes.

The defending champion seeking a fifth straight clay courts crown, proceeded to break the service of the Australian with four straight points in the next game and take the match 7-5.

Miss Casals, 18, of San Francisco, turned back the world's ranking player with an array of shots, all with baffling spin. Mrs. King, meanwhile, was having difficulty with her first service and with keeping her own ground strokes inside the baseline.

In the first set, Miss Casals, grand niece of famed musician Pablo Casals, put the match away by breaking Mrs. King's service with the score 5 games to 4. Mrs. King netted a ground stroke for the match - ending point.

Ashe, yet to be tested in the tournament, barely worked up a sweat in breezing by the Australian who had great difficulty keeping the ball in court. The only time Ashe experienced difficulty was in the third set when Cooper broke his service for the first time.

Ashe, playing into an ineffective Cooper backhand, took a 6-5 lead by racking up four straight points and breaking Cooper's service, then held his own service to win 7-5.

Phils Whip Reds, 5-3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gary Sutherland's two-out single in the eighth inning drove in a pair of unearned runs that carried the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati Friday night.

Sutherland's first hit since June 28 erased a 3-2 deficit and Tony Taylor followed with a run-scoring infield single as the Phillies handed the Reds their third straight loss.

The Phils came from behind after an error by shortstop Tommy Helms kept the eighth inning rally alive.

Bill White singled with one out and pinch runner Billy Cowan moved to second on a single by Don Lock that knocked out Cincinnati starter Sammy Ellis. Helms then booted Clay Dalrymple's double play grounder, filling the bases.

Reliever Ted Abernathy got pinch hitter Gene Oliver to pop up for the second out, but Sutherland sent the Phils ahead with his single to right. Dalrymple reached third when catcher Johnny Edwards dropped the throw to the plate for another error, then scored on Taylor's hit to short.

The Reds had taken the lead in the top of the eighth with one out went reliever Grant Jackson hit Chico Ruiz with a pitch and Vada Pinson drilled a run-scoring double to the scoreboard in right center field.

Free Passes Fell Twins

ANAHEIM (AP) — Tom Satriano walked with the bases loaded in the fifth inning, forcing in the decisive run and sendying the streaking California Angels past Minnesota 2-1 for their fourth straight victory and 31st in 43 games.

Bobby Knoop had doubled home a run an inning before and George Brunet protected his 2-0 lead with a four-hitter entering the ninth inning. But Harmon Killebrew led off the inning with his 28th homer, Bob Allison walked and Zoilo Versalles singled before Minnie Rojas came on to get the last out, striking out Rich Reese.

The victory kept the fourth-place Angels 2½ games behind American League-leading Chicago. Minnesota, losing its fourth straight, dropped from second to third, two games behind the White Sox.

Two infield hits and a walk loaded the bases in the fifth before Dave Boswell, 8-6, walked Satriano. Bob Rodgers walked in the fourth and scored on Knoop's double.

NEW YORK (AP) — Santos of Brazil and Inter of Italy, both former world soccer champions, will play again in New York Yankees Stadium on Aug. 25. A year ago, Santos defeated the team from Milan 4-1 before 41,598 fans in the Stadium.

Foy Still Cracking, Keeps Bosox Hot

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joe Foy cracked a three-run homer in the third inning, powering Boston to its seventh straight victory as the Red Sox beat Cleveland 6-2 Friday night.

Foy's 14th homer, off Luis Tiant, followed a single by Mike Andrews and a walk and sent Boston ahead 4-0 after Tony Conigliaro doubled and scored on George Scott's single in the second.

Darrell Brandon, 4-8, who doubled and scored the last Boston run on a wild pitch in the seventh, stopped the Indians on eight hits, one of them Leon Wagner's 14th homer with one on in the eighth.

The other Boston run came in the fourth off Steve Bailey when Reggie Smith singled and scored on Scott's double.

Rawls and Hamby was the winning battery while Salters and Harris was the losing battery. Scroggins homered for the winners.

Wayne Causey Leads Chisox Past A's To Snap Loss Streak

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wayne Causey drove in two runs with a triple and single and scored a third, leading the Chicago White Sox to a 5-4 victory over Kansas City Friday night that ended their three-game losing streak.

Wilbur Wood, a relief specialist turned starting pitcher, checked the A's on six hits before giving way to knuckle baller Hoyt Wilhelm in the eight hand picked up his second victory in as many decisions this season.

The 25-year-old left-hander beat the A's 5-1 last Sunday in his first start.

Wilhelm was touched for two runs in the ninth on three singles and a wild pitch before Bob Locker came on to get the last out.

Ken Berry doubled in the sixth and came home on Walt Williams' single, giving the Sox a 4-1 edge, and they added what turned out to be the winning run in the ninth on a single by Williams, a sacrifice bunt and Causey's single to center.

After Don Buford beat out a bunt in the fifth inning, Causey tripled to right, snapping a 1-1 tie, and scored on a single by Pete Ward.

McCovey's Bad Throw Hands Cubs Win In 12th

CHICAGO (AP) — Al Spangler scored from second base on Willie McCovey's throwing error in the 12th inning, giving the Chicago Cubs a 5-4 victory over San Francisco Friday.

Spangler drew a leaoff walk in the 12th and was sacrificed to second by Randy Hundley. Adolfo Phillips was walked intentionally before John Stephenson, batting for pitcher Cal Koonce, grounded to first baseman McCovey, whose throw to second for an attempted force sailed into left field as Spangler raced home with the winning run.

Koonce, the fifth Chicago pitcher, received credit for the victory while Ron Herbel, the sixth San Francisco, hurler, took the loss.

The Cubs tied it 4-4 in the seventh when Paul Popovich singled for his third hit, was safe at second on a fielder's choice grounder by Billy Williams and came home on Ernie Banks' single. The Giants had gone in front in the top of the inning on Jesus Alou's double, a sacrifice bunt and Willie Mays' sacrifice fly.

Trailing 3-1 in the sixth, the Cubs tied the scored on Ron Santo's leadoff homer, two walks and a pinch single by Ted Savage.

Santo's two-base throwing error on a double play grounder enabled the Giants to score twice for a 3-1 lead in the to of the sixth. Mays, back in the line-up after a week's absence because of a flu attack, opened with a single. McCovey walked and both scored when Santo picked up Jim Hart's tap and threw the ball past second into right field.

Jimmy Foxx Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Foxx, the famed Double X, who ranked among baseball's greatest home run hitters, died Friday. He was 59.

Foxx, who helped the old Philadelphia Athletics to a dominance of the game in the early 1930s, retired in 1945 with 534 major league home runs—second only to Babe Ruth until Willie Mays passed him last year.

Foxx, a muscular, right-handed hitter who sometimes was called The Beast, was voted into baseball's Hall of Fame in 1951. He was a first baseman.

Foxx, who had been in financial straits in his later life, became ill Friday at the home of his brother, Sam, with whom he lived.

Sheriff's detective Walter Seward said the brother told him Foxx had a heart condition. An autopsy will be performed to determine the exact cause of death.

Foxx, born in Sudlersville, Md., Oct. 22, 1907, broke in with the Athletics—then managed by Connie Mack—in 1925. He also played with the Boston Red Sox, before winding up his career with the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies in 1945.

He finished with a lifetime batting average of .325 and twice led the American League in hitting, at .356 in 1933 and .349 in 1938.

But it was as a slugger, as a long ball hitter, the big guy won his greatest fame. He led the American League in home run four times, 58 in 1932, 48 in 1933, 36 in 1935 and 35 in 1939.

And in 1933, he won baseball's triple crown, leading the league in home runs, batting and runs batted in, one of only 10 men ever to accomplish the feat.

Foxx played in three World Series and seven All-Star games.

In an interview in August, 1966, Foxx recalled his biggest major league thrill was a home run in the 1931 World Series against the St. Louis Cardinals.

He said he hit it off Burley Grimes, among the last of the legal spitball pitchers. Grimes had beaten the A's in the first game, and the Series was tied 2-2. The fifth game was in the ninth inning.

"Grimes was quite a bench jockey," Foxx said. "He even got on Mr. Mack (Connie Mack) and that was against all rules.

"The first pitch to me was a big roundhouse curve," Foxx said. "I never had any idea he would throw a curve with that spitball. I just watched it go over for a strike."

"I said, 'I'll be damned.' I wonder if he'll do that again," Foxx said. "The second pitch was that big sidearm curve. A guy in the stands just barely got it before it went clean out of the stadium."

When Willie Mays socked his 535 th homer Aug. 17, 1966, Foxx reacted like a gentleman and said he had struck a blow for right-handers.

"I hope he hits 600," said the retired Maryland strong boy.

"For 25 years, they thought only left-handers could hit the long ones," Foxx said. "They even teach right-handed youngsters to hit left.

"Why, I hit 500 before any other right-hander could hit 400. I'm happy that another right-hander can prove he can hit."

"Willie is one of the greatest players we've seen in many a year," Foxx said. But he said Mays doesn't have a chance at Babe Ruth's record of 714.

"The only one who had a chance was (Ted) Williams," Foxx said. "And he had to hit in the biggest ball park in the American League, and he lost those five years to the service. Can you imagine what Williams would have done in Yankee Stadium?"

Foxx believed he could have matched some of Ruth's records if he had aimed for the fence and if he had gotten a few more breaks.

In 1932, for instance, when he hit 58 for the A's, Foxx said, he injured his wrist and only collected three homers in August.

But Foxx, who averaged .325 for 2,317 major league games as catcher, first baseman, third baseman and outfielder, said he went after the solid hits, not the round trip.

"I figured if you hit the ball good, it was gone," he said.

"But if I had broken Ruth's record, it wouldn't have made any difference. Oh, it might have put a few more bucks in my pocket. But there was only one Ruth."

Foxx was still pretty close to his playing weight of 205 to 210 pounds when he died. He lived in retirement with his oldest son, a policeman, in a pleasant suburban home with a screened pool out back. He swam every day but got little other exercise since a collapse last year.

"At first, they told me it was a heart attack," he said. "Then they said it wasn't, and I don't know. But they told me to cut down on work, which wasn't very hard. I'm pretty lazy."

His middle had softened and his hair was grey. He moved with difficulty.

But the muscles still rippled through his barrel chest and arms and he was a formidable physical presence when he stood—until you noticed that he had trouble holding himself steady.

He smoked cigars as he had for 40 years and he enjoyed is whisky.

He watched the ball games on television and attended a lot of baseball functions around the country, such as Hall of Fame inductions or special days for famous players.

Hornung's Injuries Seem Normal For Pro Gridder

HOUSTON (UPI)—A doctor who ran a series of tests and X-rays on Paul Hornung said Friday the former Green Bay Packer "Golden Boy" appears to have no other injuries than the normal aches and pains a football player is likely to receive.

Hornung was sidelined by a pinched nerve in his neck for most of last season with the Packers. Green Bay put Hornung on the block during the expansion draft for the New Orleans Saints, and the Saints scooped him up.

But Hornung's future has been in doubt because of the recurring pain in his neck. He has undergone tests at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., as well as in Houston.

Although the Mayo Clinic results are not complete, Dr. Billy Withers, the family surgeon of New Orleans Saints owner John Mecom said he could not find anything physically wrong with Hornung.

"I feel Paul is O.K.," said Withers Friday. "The tests completed yesterday indicate he has the same kind of neck as all the rest of his teammates."

"Everybody that makes his living with power running and who runs low with head down is bound to have some problems with the vertebrae in the neck area," he said. Withers said. He added that such strains and tensions in the neck area even show up in high school players.

Withers said he had taken X-rays of Hornung's neck and had injected a dye into his spinal column to trace its flow. Withers said the test showed no pinching of nerves or obstruction in the spinal column.

But Withers said a final decision on whether Hornung could play with the Saints next season without aggravating something would not come until the Mayo Clinic tests were complete.

Hornung left Memorial Baptist Hospital Friday after Withers announcement, and checked into a hotel.

He said he did not want to predict whether he would play with the Saints next season, but said he would leave soon for San Diego, where the club is preparing for its first season in the National Football League.

Saints Add Vet, Subtract Rookies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The New Orleans Saints claimed a veteran from the waiver list Friday an dsent there rookies home.

Coach Tom Fears also sent his rookies against the San Diego Chargers in two controlled scrimmages.

Veteran quarterback Bill Kilmer, claimed from the San Francisco 49ers in the expansion draft, led 10 rookies on offense who collided with a Charger defensive unit at the Saints camp on the California Western University campus here.

A Saints defensive team went to Escondido to take on the Chargers at nearby Escondido where the American Football League team is training.

As usual, no score was kept.

Fears announced the signing of Eli Strand, a 6-foot - 2, 250-pound guard from Iowa State, who was placed on waivers earlier this week by the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers. Strand played eight games with the Steelers last season and in 1965 was a member of Green Bay's taxi squad.

Cut from the squad were tight end Roosevelt Robertson, a 10th round draft choice from North Carolina College; split end Bruce Smith, a free agent from Brigham Young; and center Larry Metevia, a free agent from Grambling.

Fears plans an intrasquad scrimmage Saturday

Dixie Seniors Close Season

Final games in the West Monroe Dixie Senior League will be held tonight at Confederate Park, with two contests on tap.

W. B. Nelson Lumber takes on Humphries Insurance in a 6 p.m. opener followed by the clash between People's Homestead and Coburn Heating and Air Conditioning, the league winners.

Also on tap will be the announcement of the Dixie Senior All - Stars, a team which will represent West Monroe in the fifth annual Dixie Senior World Series to be held in Monroe in early August

Presentation of trophies to team winners will also be held, with Coburn Heating and Monroe Concrete Sand & Gravel accepting from the Dixie Boys League.

Tigers Still Stalking, Hand Yankees Fifth Straight Loss

DETROIT (AP) — Ailing Willie Horton slammed three hits in five innings driving in two runs and scoring one as the Detroit Tigers handed the New York Yankees their fifth straight loss, 4-2, Friday night.

Denny McLain had a four-hit shutout entering the eighth, but needed some clutch relief help from Mike Marshall to even his record 11-11.

McLain left after the first two hitters in the eighth singled and Marshall gave up a two-run double to Roy White. But Mickey Mantle struck out for the fourth time, Joe Pepitone grounded out and Marshall struck out Tom Tresh to end the threat.

Horton, suffering all season from a chronic achilles tendon injury to his left heel, left the game for a pinch-runner in the fifth after driving home Don Wert from first base with a 370-foot single.

Horton drove in his first run in the three-run Detroit third with a hit after Dick McAuliffe beat out a bunt and took second on an infield grounder. Bill Freehan's double scored Horton and Mickey Stanley brought home Freehan with a single.

Loser Steve Barber, 5-11, gave up 12 hits before leaving in the fifth.

Senators Legislate Twinbill Oriole Sweep

BALTIMORE (AP) — Cap Peterson's three-run double in the eighth inning propelled Washington to a 3-1 victory over Baltimore Friday night, completing a doubleheader sweep for the surprising Senators.

Washington, which has won 11 of its last 13 games to take over sixth place in the American League, won the opener 4-3, scoring the winning run on an eighth inning wild pitch after Fred Valentine knocked in the first three with a pair of singles.

Winning pitcher Joe Coleman and Baltimore's Dave McNally hooked up in a scoreless duel in the nightcap until the Senators broke loose in the eighth.

Frank Howard, batting for Coleman after Dick Nen had singled and moved up on a sacrifice, was walked intentionally and Moe Drabowsky replaced McNally after Bob Saverine also walked, filling the bases.

Drabowsky struck out Ken McMullen but Peterson then smacked a 2-2 pitch into the left field corner, clearing the bases.

The Orioles loaded the bases with none out in the bottom of the eighth but could push across only one run, on Curt Motton's sacrifice fly. Darold Knowles, credited with saves in both games, retired the last two batters in relief of Dave Baldwin, then checked the Orioles in the ninth.

In the opener, Valentine drove in one run with a two-out single in the first inning and delivered two more with a two-out single in the fifth. But the winning run scored in the eighth when reliever Eddit Fisher uncorked a wild pitch after issuing an intentional walk that filled the bases.

Trailing 4-1, the Orioles closed the gap in the bottom of the eighth on successive homers by Paul Blair and Brooks Robinson before Knowles came on to slam the door.

Senior Tourney Is Scheduled

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — There will be a Dixie Senior District Baseball Tournament here starting tomorrow and run through Thursday.

Three teams will be entered in the double elimination tourney with Morehouse Parish taking on the Northeast Louisiana League in the first game at 7:30 p.m. Tri - Parish is the second team.

Admission is $1 for adults and .50 for children over 12.

Mazeroski, Veale Lead Buc Victory

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Veale fired a three-hitter for his first complete game in 16 starts and Bill Mazeroski slugged three hits guiding the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-1 victory over Houston Friday night.

Veale, 11-4, whose last complete game was on April 28, struck out 10 and walked just three, compared to 15 walks he yielded in his last two starts.

The Astros ruined Veale's shutout bid in the ninth when Jim Wynn reached first on an error by Maury Wills, took third on Rusty Staub's double and scored on an infield out.

Mazeroski scored twice and drove in another run with a double that climaxed a four-run seventh inning explosion.

Manny Mota slammed his third homer in the second inning and tripled home Mazeroski in the sixth.

Donn Clendenon's double, singles by Mazeroski and Jim Pagliaroni and a wild pitch accounted for two runs in the fourth.

Roberto Clemente, making his first appearance after missing four games because of a sore knee, drilled a two-run triple in the seventh.

Staub, who also had an infield single in the fourth, ran his batting streak to 20 games.

Clark Undergoes Army Surgery

ROCHESTER, Minn (AP) — Ronnie Clark, third baseman for the Minnesota Twins, underwent surgery Friday on his right elbow

Clark has been on the disabled list for several weeks and a Twins spokesman said there was no indication how much longer he will be out.

Dr. Ed Henderson of the Mayo Clinic removed a bone chip from the elbow area. The chip was described as about the size of a small fingertip.

Cook Wins Two At Raceway

Freddy Cook took top honors in both the feature and trophy races in addition to placing second in the fast heat at the Cajun Raceway Friday night.

Burl McGee captured the slow heat trophy and Jean Hempf took top honors in the fast heat run while Charlie Barr captured the consolation.

Hempf was involved in a spectacular flip - over and will be out of tonight's running.

The races tonight will begin at 8 p.m.

Mets Blitzed By Bums, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Schofield's double triggered a two-run burst in the first inning and the Los Angeles Dodgers went on to blank the New York Mets 3-0 Friday night behind the combined six hit pitching of Bill Singer and Phil Regan

Singer, a rookie right-hander, eighth and squared his pitching yielded five singles before record at 4-4 Regan, who came on with one out after Bud Harrelson's second hit and a walk threatened the shutout, got Ed Charles to bounce into an inning ending double play.

Schofield led off the first with double to left against left-hander Dennis Bennett and scored on a single by Willie Davis. Davis took third on Lou Johnson's single and scored while Jim Lefebvre was hitting into a double play.

The Dodgers added a run in the seventh when Al Ferrara doubled, moved to third on Wes Parker's sacrifice bunt and scored on a sacrifice fly by Bob Bailey.

A Shea Stadium crowd of 39,612 boosted the Mets' home attendance to 1,013,971—marking the fifth straight year they have gone over the million mark.

State's Best Cagers To Open Workouts

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana's top schoolboy basketball players will converge on the LSU campus here Thursday to begin preparations for the Louisiana High School Athletic Association's annual East-West all-star game.

The annual contest between the state's best high school basketball players will climax the basketball portion of the LHSAA's annual coaching clinic. The game will be played at the Istrouma High Gymnasium here Aug. 1 at 7:30 p.m. The basketball program will last for two days, July 31-Aug.1, with the football program following the next two days, Aug. 2-3. The all-star football game will be held in Tiger Stadium on the final day of the grid program.

Leading the list of players in this year's East-West game is high school All-American James Welch of Lake Charles LaGrange. A 6-2, 170-pound guard, Welch averaged 27.0 points per game in leading LaGrange to a 35-0 record and the state class AAA championship last season. Welch will play for the East team in the all-star game.

All-state selections are the East's Art Barry of Lafayette Cathedral, Harry Clanton of Istrouma, Daryl DuBois of Meaux, Clyde Forbes of Holden, Kerry McNabb of French Settlement, Shine Sonnier of Breaux Bridge, and Welch; and the West's George Corley of Florien, Tommy Eagles of Doyline, Jim Krajefska of Bossier Airline, William McInnis of Rapides, Larry Nelson of Caldwell Parish, Allen Posey of Natchitoches, David Pipes of Collinston, Billy Stahl of Dubberly, Carlton Walding of Alexandria Bolton, and Lester Wyatt of Many. These players were first team all-state choices.

Players who were second team all-state selections are the East's Joel Chatelain of Newman, Johnny Janese of Lake Charles LaGrange, and David Oatley of Denham Springs.

Roy Cates, who coached Lake Charles LaGrange to the state AAA title last year, will direct the East squad. Doyline's James Roach is the West team's coach.

The West will enjoy a slight height advantage and close to a two-point edge in average of points per player. The West team has an average height of 6-2 and a scoring average of 20.1 points per man. The East average 6-1½ and 18.4 points per players.

Florien's George Corley and Doyline's Tommy Eagles bring perhaps the best statistical records into the game along with the talented Welch. Corley has the highest scoring average of any player in the game at 28.4. Eagles, who was voted the Most Valuable Player in Class B last season, averaged 23.9 points per game.

Eagle Propaganda Works; Brown To Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Kuharich could have saved himself all that salary propaganda he issued on Timmy Brown.

"I won't have any contract problems," the 30-year-old Brown said Friday as he cleaned up some personal business preparatory to reporting Sunday to Kuharich and the Philadelphia Eagles National Football League training camp at Hershey, Pa.

"If they don't want to pay me what I think I'm worth, I'll play for nothing," said the greatest offensive back in Eagles' history. "Well, almost for nothing."

Kuharich has been telling anyone who asks, and some who didn't, that Brown wasn't expected to play this year, and that the Eagles could get along without him.

"He's going into television," Kuharich said.

"I don't know where he got that impression," said Brown, fresh back from Hawaii where he modeled bathing suits.

"I told him I'd be back. As for salary, we're not that far apart, especially for only one talk."

Brown, who holds the NFL record for total offense in a season and last year joined the exclusive 10,000-yard club, also wants it known that reports he doesn't pay enough attention to football are giving him a bum rap.

"When I play football it's No. 1, and everything else is secondary," he said. 'I give it all I have, because I have too much pride to play any other way. I love the game, enjoy playing. When I stop loving it I'll quit.

"When I'm not playing football and concentrating on my future, acting and singing, that becomes No. 1, and football is secondary. Anyone who thinks football the five or six months of the off season is crazy."

Brown noted that some players are brokers, insurance agents and other things in the off season, "Why pick on me? Is it because acting and singing and television is in the public eye?"

The 205-pounder, who last year became the first player in league history to return two kickoffs for touchdowns in one game, says he has to think of his future. "Football isn't going to do a damn thing for me when I'm through."

As he approaches his ninth season, Brown has set no individual goals for himself. He thinks the Eagles have a 75 per cent chance of winning the championship and this is his main hope.

"I don't carry the ball enough to win the ground gaining title, and with Mike Ditka, Gary Ballman, and Ray Poage around, my pass receiving is limited," Brown said.

Brown has been used a lot as a decoy and a blocker in recent seasons, averaging only about eight carries a game. He says he doesn't mind this "as long as we win. If we lose it makes me mad.

"Tell Joe I'll see him Sunday, and not to worry about the money. Football is a labor of love."

Huh?

Fight Ruling Overturned In Cokes-Harris Match

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Curtis Cokes-Gypsy Joe Harris world welterweight championship fight will be held Monday night as scheduled, Kenneth Hayles, promoter for the Greater Dallas Sports Association said Friday night.

Hayles called a news conference following a decision by a district judge in Austin returning his promoter's license to him and ordering the fight to be held. The order set aside a ruling Wednesday by State Boxing Commissioner Charles King, who suspended the promoter's license and ruled the fight was not to be held because of irregularities in promoting the bout.

Phil Burleson, attorney for the promoter, said the Austin ruling allowed the fight to be held as scheduled and that King, the state commissioner who was not in Austin to hear about the results of the court proceedings, did not have to be notified in order to make it effective immediately.

Hayles said that he was notifying Harris, who is in Philadelphia, that the fight was on again and that he would expect Cokes, the champion who left Friday on a fishing trip, to be on hand for the fight.

When asked what the result would be if Cokes did not show up, Burleson said, "We will take that up Monday."

Burleson said the contracts for the fight had been approved and there was nothing in the way of holding the 15-round fight in which Cokes will defend his championship for the third time.

Hayles said the fight would be televised in color by TV Sports, Inc., of New York and that he didn't think that the uncertainty of the fight being held as result of the legal manipulations would hamper the crowd in any way.

Huguet Wins Jaycee Golf

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Precision stroking won Marty Huguet of Baton Rouge the State Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament championship here Friday with a 69-70-71—210.

Government Warns Owners Of 9,000 G. E. Color TV Sets To Disconnect Them

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unknown owners of some 9,000 large-screen color television sets were told by the government Friday to disconnect them immediately pending a check on possible radioactivity.

The television sets involved are large-screen color consoles and table models made by the General Electric Co. and purchased between Sept. 1, 1966, and May 31, 1967. Small-screen color and black and white receivers are not involved.

Surgeon General William H. Stewart of the Public Health Service issued the warning after General Electric, despite a "nationwide search, reported failure to locate about one-tenth of the sets the company suspected of emitting potentially harmful X-rays from certain tubes.

Dr. Stewart said tests of tubes supplied by the manufacturer indicated that a "large percentage" of the tubes leaked radiation at levels "representing a potential hazard to human health."

Owners of the sets are advised to notify a General Electric dealer or service agency or state or local health department before using them. Dr. Stewart praised the manufacturer for doing an outstanding job in locating and correcting more than 100,000 sets. The search involved General Electric's entire distributor-dealer organization and about 80,000 independent servicemen.

General Electric discovered the possibility that some of their sets were leaking x-rays from shunt regulator tubes and notified the government and the public service months ago.

The Radiological Health Center Laboratory tested 185 tubes and found that only 23 per cent emitted radiation below level considered to be in the range of safety.

ICC To Probe I.C. Shutdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered Friday an investigation into the proposed discontinuance of two Illinois Central passenger trains between Memphis and New Orleans.

The railroad had sought to discontinue trains No. 3 and 8 on Aug. 1. The ICC said the two trains must be kept in operation for no longer than four months while the investigation is underway.

Pep-Up Rice With Flavorful Ingredients For Spicy Dish

Though plain rice, unseasoned and unadorned, is popular in other lands, most Americans find it a bit bland and are happier when rice is pepped up with flavorful ingredients. The clever cooks of the Orient can play their rice either way. Shrimp Fried Rice is one of their specialties, and a mighty tasty concoction. This recipe uses cooked cold rice, which cuts preparation time considerably.

SHRIMP FIRED RICE

6 tabelspoons bacon drippings or salad oil
4 cups cooked rice
3 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups cooked shrimp
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate

Heat bacon drippings or oil in a large skillet. Add rice and saute until hot, about 2 minutes. Add eggs and stir rapidly until eggs are well mixed in with the rice. Reduce heat; add shrimp and remaining ingredients. Heat through. Turn into a serving bowl. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

FLAVORFUL LAMB

For a company cookout, serve lamb chops with shallot butter. Make the seasoned butter by blending 6 tablespoons of butter, or margarine if desired, with ½ teaspoon each of dried shallot powder and paprika. Shape into roll and refrigerate. Sprinkle 6 lamb chops (each 3 bones thick) with salt and pepper. Skewer chops and broil 6 to 7 inches from heat source, 12 to 15 minutes per side or until done as desired. Before serving, top each with a slice of shallot butter. Makes 6 servings.

SHOWER CURTAIN

When plastic shower curtains no longer wipe clean, wash them in the washing machine. Set the machine at the lowest heat and the shortest cycle and add towels to the load. The towels act as buffers and wipe dirt and spots off the plastic as the machine agitates. Remove the curtains the minute the cycle is finished.

Hosts for the occasion will be their nine sons and daughters.

Couple's Betrothal Continues To Spark Prenuptial Parties

Mrs. John McCarter Jr. complimented Miss Dianne Guy, bride-elect of Andy Mapp, with a rice bag and old shoe party during a luncheon Saturday. Unique handmade invitations prior to the festive occasion requested each guest to bring an old shoe.

The betrothed couple will exchange vows on August 5, at Hewitt Memorial Presbyterian Church in Mansfield. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Guy of Mansfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Mapp of Monroe.

The honoree was wearing a royal blue voile with coral and white polka dots. The high waistline was bowed with a wide fold of coral material. To introduce the party theme, the hostess presented Miss Guy with a pair of dainty white silk slippers which she attached to her waistline.

Guests signed the bride's book at a table covered with brown linen and ornamented with an arrangement of yellow and white daisies in a century old shoe. Noted over the fireplace suspended from which satin streamers were a pair of men's shoes antiqued white, while placed at another vantage point were lady's high-topped shoes filled with ivy, variegated foliage and Shasta daisies. Luncheon tables in the dining room and family room were centered with high heeled ceramic slippers holding daisies and eucalyptus.

The old shoes brought by the guests were displayed on the hearth. During a contest the prize, a blue garter, was awarded to Miss Janet White for the ugliest shoe. All the shoes were tied with white roping to form a garland for the bumper of the car when the couple departs on their wedding trip.

Following the luncheon the hostess and guests fashioned rice bags.

Mrs. McCarter presented Miss Guy with china in her chosen pattern.

Those attending the bridal affair were Mrs. Mapp, Mrs. Edwin Russell, Mrs. George T. Walker, Miss Ellen Walker, Miss Connie Yancey, Miss Lucille Morton, Mrs. Roy Lee Barron, Mrs. William P. Reynolds III, Mrs. Rick Hyland, Mrs. Janet Moses, Miss Janet White, Mrs. Prentice Gray, Mrs. James Alton, Mrs. Nicholas II and Miss Lisa Russell.

PATIO BUFFET

Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Moore hosted a patio party in courtesy to the betrothed couple, and greeted their guests at the entrance to the terrace overlooking Bayou DeSiard.

The bride's book was placed on a wrought iron tea cart decorative with a ceramic heart filled with ivy, flanked by bride and groom figurines.

Following boating on the bayou the ringing of a plantation bell called guests to dinner, served buffet style, from a table near the terrace wall. An arrangement of Shasta daisies and mauve chrysanthemums was the focal decoration. Moss green hurricane lamps spaced at intervals down the table's center were joined by streamers of green ivy.

A trio of tables, covered in white, were centered with hurricane lamps surrounded with daisies and ivy. The honor guests' table was decorative with a footed ceramic urn embossed with bridal figurines laden with daisies, satin bows and loops of white net. Ceramic wedding bells and name plates inscribed in gold marked the seating arrangements. On the back of each plate was the couple's name with their wedding dates etched in gold.

The bride - elect was presented a corsage of tube roses, and Mrs. Mapp, carnations and tube roses. The hostess gifted the honorees with twin gifts of silver.

The bride - to - be chose from her trousseau a black and white checked voile shift fashioned entirely of deep bias tucks with a wide black bow at the throat and spaghetti straps.

Those invited to the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Mapp, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Russell, Mr. and Mrs. John McCarter Jr., Dr. and Mrs. George Thomas Walker, Miss Ellen Walker, Dr. and Mrs. Dan Dupree, Mr. and Mrs. James Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. Lyn McCready, Paul Aron, Miss Lucille Morton, Lee Tugwell of Bastrop, Miss Vickie Volmer of Ferriday, Ed Berry of Waterproof, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Burford of Natchitoches, Mr. and Mrs. Guy, Mrs. William Cottrell, and Miss Cindy Bassoe, all of Mansfield and Tommy Cruse of Jena, Vernon Alford of Ferriday, and Miss Linda Lee Green of Shreveport.

Webb-Russell Wedding Plans Are Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Luther F. Russell of Tallulah announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Mary Frances, to William Loyd Webb, son of Mrs. Mae Hagen of Ruston.

The wedding is planned for August 12, at 4 p.m. in New Hope Baptist Church with the Rev. Roy Joyner officiating.

The couple will make their home in Monroe where Mr. Webb is employed. Mrs. Webb will be on the West Monroe High School faculty this fall.

MRS. EDWIN DEAN HERR

Monroe Woman Named State President Of Colonial Dames

Mrs. Edwin Dean Herr of Monroe, daughter of the late George Lafayette May and Annie Bell Pattie May of Mississippi and Forest, has been named state president of the Louisiana Society Colonial Dames of the Seventeenth Century.

A charter member of Francis Billingsley Chapter C. D. XVII Century of Oak Grove, she has been an active member of the state organization soon after it was organized. Mrs. Herr has served the chapter as president, treasurer, historian, program chairman and various other chairmanships.

On the state level she has filled the offices of treasurer, third, second and first vice president, and a chairman of the state nominating committee among others. Mrs. Herr attended the National Conference of the Colonial Dames of the XVII Century held in Washington D. C. in 1966 and 1967, serving as a delegate both years and also serving as National Sales Committee Chairman and as a member of the credentials committee.

Other hereditary organizations to which she belongs are the Magna Charta Dames and Daughters of the American Revolution. The Magna Charta Dames, the English hereditary society, was organized in Louisiana, in May of this year at a meeting in Baton Rouge. Mrs. Herr was elected to the office of president scribe and appointed as membership chairman for the North Louisiana Division. She has been an active worker in the DAR, having served as regent of General William Carroll Chapter of Oak Grove and other capacities. On the national level she has served as National DAR chairman of radio and TV for the Southwest Division of the United States.

Mrs. Herr is also a member of Guiding Star Chapter No. 66, Order of Eastern Star of Oak Grove and a member of Parkview Baptist Church, Oak Grove.

Following in her mother's footsteps is her only daughter, Frances Dean Herr, who is a member of Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution and the Order of Rainbow for Girls. She is presently attending summer school in London, England.

Pilot Club's International Convention Convenes Sunday

District III of Pilot Club International will host the 46th annual convention of Pilot International at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans, beginning tomorrow through July 28. The host district is comprised of 34 clubs in Louisiana and Mississippi.

Mrs. A. T. White president of the local club, will attend as official delegate with Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and Mrs. J. Howard Carroll as alternates. Other attending from Monroe are Mrs. E. S. Kinnison, Mrs. W. T. Montgomery, Mrs. J. M. Snipp and Mrs. Jack Hollingsworth. Mrs. Carroll and Mrs. Hollingsworth are on the committee planning the hospitality suite for the event.

A welcome party will be held Sunday aboard the S.S. President, known as the largest ballroom in the South. This will be the prelude to the many activities planned for the convention. Pilots of District III will be distinguished at this welcome party by wearing ante bellum costumes.

Approximately 2000 Pilots from the United States including Hawaii, England, Bermuda, and Canada are anticipated. Keynote speaker for the opening session will be Dr. Kenneth Wells, president of Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa. Prof. Meralda I. Brennan of Shennandoah, Pa. will preside.

A highlight of the event will be a safety luncheon on Tuesday. Mrs. Agnes Beaton, Washington, D.C., will present safety awards to the winning clubs of the luncheon.

The installation banquet on Thursday evening will close the convention when Mrs. Peg DeSalvo of Apple Valley, Calif. will be installed as president for the ensuing year.

Hints From Heloise

Radio In Plastic Bag Rain-Dirt Protected

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise,
When I take my portable radio to the pool, I put it inside a clear plastic bag to keep the sand and water from ruining it.

The bag is large enough so that I can change stations without removing the radio. Sure prevents my radio and doesn't interfere with the sound at all.

Barbara Carrington

Fancy that! It works like a charm. Thanks to Barbara for this hint.

Heloise

Dear Heloise,
Finding the right matches to match the color of the bridesmaids' dresses and flowers can be a problem. Why not buy the matches in bulk, white, and color them with felt-tip pens? Then you can match anything and it matches the entertaining children.

You can mix up small amounts of the desired color right out in there and you will have your own brand of matches in all kinds of colors.

Nail polish remover can be used to change the different colors and a new point for the pen is a must.

Mrs. Frieda Davis

Dear Heloise,
After four desperate attempts at trying to locate a product to touch up the scratches and nicks on my silver shoes I bought a silver, paste-like product intended for eyelid glamour. By putting this on the shoes and smoothing it away from the scarred areas, I was able to render that first aid to my shoes. It covered the bad places quite effectively.

Mrs. K.W.D.

Dear Heloise,
Here's a hint that's permanent.

With the time we save by using the wonderful hints we learn from you, let's all down and read a book or take in a movie.

A well-informed mind is as important as a well-fed one.

A Reader

And don't forget the Bible.

Today's Recipe

CORN CAKES

2 large fresh eggs
2 cups firmly packed fresh corn, cut from cobs (approx. 4 large ears; cut kernels away, then scrape down pulp with dull side of knife)
2 tablespoons instant flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter

In a medium mixing bowl beat eggs until thick and very light. Put in corn, flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Mix well with a spoon so that ingredients are evenly distributed. In a large skillet over moderate heat, melt about ½ tablespoons of the butter for each batch of cakes. Drop generous tablespoons of the mixture into the hot butter, leaving ample space between them. Cook until bottoms are browned and top edges are dry. Turn carefully and brown other side. Makes 24 cakes.

Powell Disappoints New York Delegation

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — The unpredictable Adam Clayton Powell Friday stood up a convention of Black Power delegates waiting for him in Newark and disappointed a delegation from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP members said in New York they had arranged for Powell to be arrested.

Instead Powell sent word he would meet with newsmen Saturday at Bimini, a British colony near Florida.

The dapper Harlem Democrat's whereabouts were subject to conjecture much of Friday.

Spokesmen for the NAACP claimed he would appear in New York to surrender finally to New York County Sheriff John J. McCloskey. Powell is wanted in New York for contempt of court.

Sheriff McCloskey said he had not been at Kennedy Airport to meet planes on which Powell had been expected to arrive but had only a "no comment" when asked if there was an arrangement for the ousted Congressman to surrender.

Two of Powell's lawyers and a pack of newsmen and photographers were waiting at Kennedy Airport but it was Powell's son, Adam Jr., who arrived.

A friend of Powell's on Bimini insisted Powell still was at his island retreat Friday afternoon and would meet the press at 11 a.m. EDT Saturday. He did not say what Powell planned to talk about.

Meanwhile, delegates to an all-Negro Black Power conference at Newark, N.J., claimed Powell was en route and would attend. Powell is honorary chairman of the conference and helped organize the meeting.

The Black Power delegates also were left waiting.

Powell's Bimini friend said that there had been a mixup and that Powell had discussed going to the conference but had decided against it.

The NAACP officials had said flatly that Powell would appear in New York under an arrangement worked out with the courts by Robert L. Carter, chief legal counsel of the association, and Henry Williams, Powell's Harlem attorney.

They said the attorneys would go into New York Supreme Court and apply for a stay of the court order requiring his arrest. They also planned to ask for an order appealing a criminal contempt of court citation against Powell stemming from his refusal to pay a libel judgment.

The 59-year-old Powell has been in self-imposed exile on Bimini, a fishing paradise 60 miles off the southeast Florida coast, since before the first of the year. He hasn't been in New York for more than 18 months.

Powell has said in numerous Bimini news conferences he won't return to New York until he is in no danger of going to jail. He has been evasive when asked about plans for returning to Washington.

VICTOR BORGE

Borge Will Play Here In Civic Center

The premier attraction in the theater of the Monroe Civic Center will be Victor Borge, internationally - known Danish pianist and comedian.

The event is scheduled for Sept. 9, at 8:15 p.m.

Civic Center Director William B. Lillyman promises, "It will be a grand evening of Borge entertainment that has been enjoyed from Broadway to Australia."

Critics maintain that Borge represents the best in two fields, being both a "brilliant musician" and an "unparalleled comedian."

Appearing with Borge will be Leonid Hambro, former official pianist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. Making the show a two - man act several years ago, Hambro adds the enjoyment of two - piano music and serves as straightman foil for Borge's wit.

Lillyman announced Thursday that ticket sales for the Borge appearance have begun. Tickets may be secured or reserved by calling or coming by the Civic Center office, across from the Government Center on Seventh Street.

The office is open Tuesday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mail orders may be sent to Box 300, accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope. The prices: $5.50, $4.50 and $4.

Police Report Arrests Here

Following her arrest at S. H. Kress Department Store on DeSiard St. Friday, Monroe, police charged Francis Hawkins, 55, of Parkdale, Ark. with simple theft.

In West Monroe officers placed theft by check charges against Mrs. L. N. Bingham, 42, of Rt. 1, Box 258, West Monroe.

James B. Scruggs, 72, 307 S. 1st St., West Monroe, was charged with reckless driving and negligent injury.

Driving while intoxicated and no driver's license charges were levied against Robert L. Richardson III, 18, Rt. 2, Farmerville.

First Shipment

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The new Iraqi port of Umqaser, built in six years to share deep-sea shipping business at the top of the Persian Gulf with the port of Basra, received its first ocean vessel in midweek. It was a Pakistani ship carrying 14,000 boxes of Ceylon tea imported by the government purchasing board.

Adcock Defends Glasgow

World Legislative Bureau

BATON ROUGE—Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe Friday asked the State Wild Life and Fisheries Commissioners to reinstate personnel authority removed Monday from Director Dr. Leslie Glasgow.

Glasgow, a former LSU professor, has been facing troubled times in his jurisdictional disputes with rural parishes. The five-man commission stripped him Monday of sole authority to hire and fire personnel.

Adcock said the commission which took the action on a 3-2 vote was overstepping its authority.

"The commission has taken on an executive function in running that department," Adcock said. "They have taken away something that is Dr. Glasgow's authority."

Sen. W.L. Rambo of Georgetown who has often clashed with Glasgow, disareed with Adcock's defense.

"The commission has the power to hire or fire the director," Rambo said. "He is fortunate. They could have fired him."

Rambo said that "contrary to stories in some newspapers" he had no personal quarrel with Glasgow. "We have clashed over issues but never personally. Dr. Glasgow knows the textbook verbatum but application in the field is something else," the senator said.

Adcock asked legislators not to go too hard on Glasgow. "If you wait maybe he will get tough enough to mingle in politics."

The former professor was appointed by Gov. John McKeithen in 1966 after Joe D. Hair Jr., resigned.

Some state legislators have their own rumor going that Glasgow will resign and return to LSU this fall.

Big Truck Hits Train At Minden

MINDEN, La. (UPI) — A lumber truck crashed into a Kansas City Southern passenger train shortly before dawn Friday killing its driver and shoving two of the box cars off the tracks.

The truck, according to officers, hit the second car of the train which was travelling at 60 miles per hour.

Ronnie Anderson of Kisatchie, La., the driver of the truck, was killed, but no passengers were injured.

YMCA-YWCA Day Camp Award winners were presented to four Friday afternoon at Parents' Day program in Forsythe Park. This ended the regular six weeks of "Y" Day camping. Winners from left to right were Curtis Stephens, most improved boy camper; Cindy Roberts, most improved girl camper; Zoe Ann Mason, best girl camper; and Steve Moncrief, best boy camper. A special one-week day camp will be operated for boys starting next Monday. (Staff Photo)

Airline Clubs To Charge Yearly Dues

NEW YORK (AP) — American Airlines said Friday it is going to start charging dues to members of the private clubs it operates at major airports.

Over the years the Civil Aeronauitcs Board has raised the question of discrimination because membership in the clubs operated by major airlines has not been open to all travelers.

American's Admiral Clubs, with deluxe facilities in a dozen U.S. cities, have about 100,000 members.

Among other clubs are Trans World Airlines' Ambassador, Pan American World Airway's Clipper, United Air Lines' 100,-000-Mile and Braniff's Internatio Council.

The airlines extend membership to people, mainly businessmen, whom they consider their best customers.

The clubs provide accommodations for customers to relax, hold meetings and order drinks.

American said it decided to start charging dues because letters from members, prompted by CAB statements, indicated they wanted the clubs continued.

Dues will make the clubs self-sufficient and eliminate subsidization from airline revenues, a spokesman said.

Reunion Staged By Hendricks

The Hendricks family reunion was held recenlty at Bernstein Park, at which time numerous relatives helped Earl H. Hendricks, Monroe, celebrate his 86th birthday.

Present for the celebrations were Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Hendricks Sr., Mrs. Martin Hendricks Wood, Mr. H. O. Hendricks, Mr. Paul Johnson, Mrs. James Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bush and Lane and Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. Moody Hendricks and Sherry, Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Bush and Randy, Renee and Denise, all of Monroe.

Judge Delays Mejia Hearing

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Dist. Judge Fred A. Blanche Jr. has postponed until 2 p.m. Monday a sanity hearing scheduled for Roy Mejia, accused of killing a erwick housewife and her three children.

Mejia, twice the object of massive manhunts in Louisiana swamplands, is charged with the April 1966 shootings of Mrs. Barbara Verrett, a 35-year-old divorcee; and her children, Brenda, 16; Lucie, 13; and Robert Jr, 11.

Beatniks Arrested

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Munich police in 10 days arrested 6 beatniks sprawled in the city parks, increasing the total haul of unkempt long-hairs to 352 since their kind began alighting here in a sort of "home-away-from-home" spirit. Twelve were jailed up to six weeks for violating city bylaws and lacking identity papers.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 7-22

—Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn—

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have a duodenal ulcer. I'm tired of dieting and all the other restrictions. I wish I could get it over with, but I'm a scaredy cat when it comes to an operation.

What about gastric freezing? Have you doctors given up on that? — Mr. H.

Comment: I know how you feel. You're tired of being a good fellow. You don't drink. You don't smoke. You eat frequently small meals. You are not allowed to have highly spiced foods which you enjoy so much. You try to live a clam, relaxed life.

You have been on this restricted regime for perhaps six months yet still have some ulcer symptoms like pain, heart burn and distress between meals. In your state of mind, you are becoming impatient. But your doctor says that conservative medical treatment is really the treatment of choice. He says it may take longer, but in the end it is worth it.

But it's human to look for shortcuts in treatment. Get it over with! How about operation? How about gastric freezing?

As you are not interested in the knife (which is understandable), here are some recent observations on gastric freezing which created such a stir a few years ago. You must remember that the pendulum often swings too wide in medicine.

Something treatment - wise comes on the scene (like gastric freezing) and creates great faith that ulcer no longer will be the scourge that it is. No more restrictions. No months and years of laborious medical management. Just a freeze or two and presto! The ulcer disappears forever.

NO CURE-ALL

But after this initial splurge of optimism comes the realization that it is not the cure - all. Soon it loses its lustre as a wonder treatment and the medical profession no longer accepts it as a common and effective routine in the treatment of ulcer of the stomach and duodenum.

You see, the pendulum has swung way over. But all physicians haven't despired of its usefulness. As recently as October 17, 1966 in the JAMA there appeared an article: Experimental and Clinical Experience with Gastric Freezing, written by Wallace P. Ritchie Jr., M.D.; Richard F. Edlich, M.D.; John J. Breen, FRCS; Jose Ernesto Molina, M.D.; and Owen H. Wangensteen, M.D.

Using new techniques in application of low temperatures to the stomach walls with cooling liquids introduced into a balloon in the stomach (freezing - treatment requiring 6 - 7 minutes, followed by a rapid rewarming of the stomach) here are some of the results:

PAIN RELIEVED

Of those patients undergoing gastric freezing more than 24 months ago, 40 per cent were either symptomatic or experienced only minimal symptoms.

The authors concluded in part: "Gastric freezing, when carried out by experienced personnel, is a safe procedure. In over 1,000 episodes of freezing, no hospital mortality has been noted. Almost uniform initial relief of pain accompanies gastric freezing.

"Without either special diet or medication, complete healing and disappearance of duodenal ulcer creaters have been observed at three months post-freeze in 50 per cent of the patients. As presently carried out, gastric freezing, while it cannot begin to compete with surgery in achieving protracted symptomatic relief, it nevertheless constitutes a useful clinical tool for control of the manifestations of peptic - ulcer disease and has a special appeal for the poor risk patient."

I suggest you talk this over with your gastroenterologist, Mr. H. Gastric freezing is not a treatment to be undertaken lightly because of such possible complications as postfreeze gastric bleeding and the formation of postfreeze ulcer.

Dr. Steincrohn is sorry he cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Unsettling Sights

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Thai Buddhist clergy is asking girls attending temple services not to expose their thighs. A leading priest, Panayanda Bhikku, said that although Buddhist monks are sworn to celibacy and trained in self-discipline, the sight of young girls in miniskirts and matador pants is unsettling.

Politicos Hold Miracle Share

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Friday modern miracles in medicine are being performed today but that tomorrow's health for the people of America and the world "rests not only on scientists but rests also on our political leaders."

Johnson made the remarks after making a tour of some of the facilities of the National Institutes of Health, the world's largest medical research center. Johnson described its activities as a "one-billion-dollar success story."

The reference was to the fact that NIH, which has eight separate institutes and provides funds for over one-third of the nation's total output for medical research, has an approximate billion-dollar-a-year budget.

Birds On Tape

TOKYO (AP) — A Tokyo hotel, the New Otani, claims bird calls are "among the most relaxing and restful sounds in the world." Guests who agree can pipe them in on a tape recording hooked to the room radio.

Several times while crossing the Mississippi River, particularly at Vicksburg and Natchez, Miss., I have noticed barges moving along the Mississippi River. I am awed at the length of these groups of barges. Is there a regulation on this, or does the tow captain have the authority to set the limit?

Under consideration now, according to the Weekly Letter of the American Waterways Operators, Inc., is legislation to limit tows "in excess of 16 barges, or greater than 140 feet wide and 800 feet long" in the New Orleans area. Other restrictions in various parts of the country mention 1,160 feet in length. However, the conditions of the area, we are told, have bearings on the length and width.

I have often wondered how many miles of railroad line there are in the United States.

Statistical highlights show a total of 211,925 in 1965, but a slight decrease last year, 1966, having a total of 211,500 miles.

Could you please tell me the home address of Elvis Presley?

Mr. Presley does not give out his home address, but it is in south Memphis, Tenn. The large mansion, named Graceland, is located on Bellview Avenue, or Highway 51 South.

What type of construction or repair is going on at Georgia Tucker School? I have heard that it is air conditioning. Is this right?

Yes, the work is for air-conditioning of the school. Workmen are presently installing the duct work — the piping that takes the cool air into the various sections of the building. This is being done this summer so that it, the work, will not interfere with the school work.

What procedure will Prince Charles of England go through to assume the throne. Will he automatically become king at age 21? If so, what happens to Queen Elizabeth, or will she become the Queen Mother?

Prince Charles will not become king of England and Scotland until the death or abdication of his mother, the present Queen. At that time he will automatically be in line for the throne and will be installed in much the same manner as Queen Elizabeth was in Westminster Abbey. Should the present queen step down, then she would become the queen mother, but she makes that decision (barring an unforseen event). The present Queen Mother, mother of Queen Elizabeth, became queen with the ascension of her late husband to the throne. She was never in line for the throne as was the present queen.

I had my property line surveyed last month and my neighbor's line is three to four feet on my property. I want to know who is supposed to clear the line. And who is supposed to build a fence.

Your first problem is telling your neighbor that he has been occupying part of your property. The neighbor will probably acknowledge the survey, although he does not have to and may get another person to survey his, or her, property. You should have an attorney check to be sure you have clear title to the property. The problem of "clearing the line" is between you and the neighbor. If you intend to build a fence, it is your obligation to do it, unless the neighbor is cooperative enough to help you, although he is not obligated. In any case, you should contact your attorney.

Recently I read an account of sharks taking noon naps, or siestas. Was this fiction or is it true that the sharks actualuly take "noon naps."

A story appeared in a national science magazine recently in which Japanese fishermen were quoted as relating tales of the islands of southern Japan tell of sharks taking noon naps. However, for years, the article says, most of these tales were considered just "tales." Recently, scientific study off the island of Takarajima, located about 400 miles from the southern tip of Kyushu Island (Japan), the tales were proved true. Huge sharks appear near the coral reefs surrounding the island and, according to the findings, they actually take naps. The sharks have a habit of sticking their heads into holes between the reefs and the sandy bottom of the seas and taking a long nap. To make the study even more interesting, all of the sharks in a recent study were males. (Could that mean anything?) The study was being handled by the Fishery Department of Kagoshima University.

Why haven't the mayors of Monroe and West Monroe come out in support of the Twin City Panthers semi-professional football team, Monroe's entry in the Southern Football League and soon to be a farm club with a National Football League team?

The two mayors report that they have "never been contacted" in "any way, shape, form or fashion" by anyone associated with the team. Both indicated however, that they wish the team success. Monroe's W. L. Howard added the city's "pride" in having such a team and said it would help in any way it could if asked. The city has, in fact, offered to make the former American Legion baseball stadium available for use by the Twin City Panthers.

Who are the members of the West Monroe Recreation Council? What plans do they have for the tennis courts

The five city aldermen are ex-officio participants in the deliberations of the West Monroe Recreation Council. They are: Charles Anding, Dr. E. S. Blackmon Jr., Jeff W. Caldwell Jr., Truett Thorn and A. R. Nix. White members of the recreation council include Pat Anderson, Robert Fowlkes, Mrs. Daisy Creighton, Mrs. Colene Mann, the Rev. Kenneth McDowell (who serves as chairman), Dan McClure and Marvin L. Smith. Negro members are the Rev. Norman Brelicke OFM, Walter Slater, Emmett Jackson, Ted Richards, Reuben Miles and E. C. Morris. Mayor Bert Hatten describes the city's recreation program as in a "building phase." No firm plans were listed for any changes at the tennis courts. The council chairman reports them in good shape and used nightly. However, he added hopes to include in the fall program a course of instruction to be sponsored by the city and holding of a tennis tournament. It would be arranged by Frank Machen, due to begin as West Monroe recreation director Aug. 15.

I understand that the famous Lipizzan horses from the Vienna, Austria, Riding Academy are to appear soon at Dallas, Tex. Does the Monroe Civic Center plan ever to have these horses in town, If not, why not?

Center Director Bill Lillyman lists no plans to bring the horses to Monroe at the present time. Both a quarterhorse show and a rodeo are scheduled in 1968, however, and he added, "If at any time I can get this show coming through Monroe and program it when dirt is on the arena floor for other events, then I will do it. Placement of dirt on the floor was described as a "big, expensive" operation. Events using dirt floors must be scheduled back-to-back to offset the prohibitive costs of their staging individually at separate times, he said.

Gov. Ellington Inks Extradition

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. Buford Ellington signed a warrant Friday for the extradition of Willie Clark Jr., 19, who escaped from Central State Hospital July 7 and fled to Georgia.

Clark, arrested a week ago in Atlanta and charged with carrying a knife, refused to waive extradition to Tennessee.

Clark was placed in the hospital after he was ruled mentally incompetent to stand trial for murder in the rape-slaying last summer of a Fisk University coed, Miss Dolores E. Scott, 31, of Baton Rouge.

LOST WIFE MYSTERY

TAIPEI (UPI)—The mystery of a missing American housewife deepened Friday when U.S. Navy Chief Petty Officer Stanford Finstein reported the loss of a cash box from his home. Finstein's wife, Merry, 24, had been missing for two weeks. Finstein, of Cambridge, Mass., said only she knew where the cash box was hidden. Nationalist Chinese authorities have offered a $950 reward and organized huge search parties in their attempts to find Mrs. Finstein.

Market Flirts With A New 1967 High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Friday flirted with a new 1967 high in the Dow Jones industrial average but didn't quite make the grade. Trading was active.

The Dow industrials ended with a gain of .87 at 909.56 — not quite reaching the 909.63 which was the closing high of the year on May 8.

In between times — or intraday as they put in on Wall Street — the Dow reached 912.51 at noon, a gain of 3.82, but failed to keep it. The reading at the close counts most with chartists.

Meanwhile, losers outnumbered gainers by 663 to 556 among the 1,450 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. New highs for the year totaled 114 and new lows 18.

The day had a lot in common with the Thursday session. A rotation of interest both among blue chips and speculative issues showed many examples of selective strength. Over-all, however, the market was remaining in about the same place, showing no decisive tendency either way.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .3 to 339.4, a new high for the year, with industrial up .1, rails up .9 both to new peaks for 1967, and utilities off .3.

A preponderance of bullish feeling was displayed again among most active issues. Nine of the 15 volume leaders advanced and six declined.

American Motors rose 1⅛ to 13⅞ on 255,700 shares as the most active stock.

The most startling performance, however, was put on by the 11th most active stock, American Broadcasting, which sank 2⅛ points to 80⅛ on 114,700 shares.

ABC was reacting to late Thursday's news that the Justice Department asked a U.S. Court of Appeals to overturn the Federal Communication Commission's approval of the merger between ABC and International Telephone.

IT&T stock declined ¼ at 102.

A single block of 107,700 shares boosted General Dynamics among the volume leaders where it dropped 1½ to 74.

Trans International Airlines fell 5⅛ to 47. The decline followed a court ruling that the Civil Aeronautics Board violated its powers in permitting all-expense tour flights by non-scheduled carriers.

As examples of blue-chip strength, General Motors rose 1⅞, Goodrich 1½, Caterpillar 1⅛, General Electric 2½, Owens-Illinois 1⅝ and Lorillard 1¼.

On the otherhand, American Can lost 1, American Tobacco 1¼, Eastman Kodak 1¼, International Paper 1¼, United Aircraft 2¾, Chicago & North Western 1¾ and Illinois Central 1¼.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .19 to 94.04.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 5 cents to $52.18.

Volume was 11.72 million shares.

Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange. The Exchange's index lost 10 cents at $20.85. Volume was 4.47 million shares.

Great American Industries was active and off ⅛ at 5⅞. National Video "A" dropped 2 and LTV Electrosystems 4. Atlantic Research gained 2⅛.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds were irregularly lower.

Futures Up On Chicago Trade Board

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures advanced more than 2 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday but corn futures again set seasonal lows.

Wheat futures had fluctuated over a narrow range throughout the morning and around noon made a strong move ahead. Large commercial buying set off the advance which also gained momentum over short covering.

The four seasonal lows in corn were set within the first half hour of trade, largely on selling by commercial interests. There was buying for export and other buyers were commission houses and local traders.

Selling by commercial interests held soybeans prices lower throughout most of the session. Near the close, however, soybeans picked up some buyer strength.

Rye futures were higher with wheat while oats were lower. Trade was light.

Soybean oil was lower but soybean meal was slightly higher in moderate trade.

Active trade again was a feature of the choice steer market. Liquidation by local professionals tured prices lower at the close.

At the close, wheat was 2¼ to 2¾ cents a bushel higher, September 1.55¼-½; corn was ⅜ to ½ cent lower, September 1.25¼-⅜; oats were unchanged to ¼ lower, September 68¼ cents; rye was 1⅛ to 1½ higher, September 1.27¾ and soybeans were ½ lower to ⅛ higher, August 2.78-77⅞.

MISSISSIPPI POULTRY

The Mississippi broiler and fryer market was weaker for delivery the week of July 24 as the ready to cook prices FOB dock equivalent declined 1½c as compared to last weeks prices. The ready to cook demand was very disappointing in most quarters and was considered very slow and at highly competitive prices in the terminal markets. The live supplies were generally fully adequate to ample. Sizes were for the most part within a desired weight range though was tending heavy at several points. The market undertone remained unsettled even at the lower levels.

Egg offerings of both type hens decreased considerable during the week as higher egg prices developed. The supplies were mostly fully ample to meet the slow buying interest at most points. The market was slightly improved toward the close of the week as offering prices were not sufficient to stimulate desired movement. Some hen processors were operating only a few days per week and others at reduced schedules.

MISSISSIPPI EGGS

Egg supplies in Mississippi during the week were barely adequate to often short for the larger sizes while mediums proved about even and although smalls were ample to fill current requirements ideal weather conditions has helped to keep the supplies fairly well in balance. The advance in egg prices in the terminal markets has given some strength to local conditions. Egg prices were irregular as mediums and large worked higher though smalls were slightly lower. The market was steady to firm in late trading.

LOUISIANA EGGS

The Louisiana weekly egg market summary

The egg market was stronger on the large about steady on others. Supplies were fully adequate. Demand was slow to fair. Prices paid regular producers some on prior agreements delivered to door of processing wholesaler 80 per cent Grade A or better cases exchanged. Loose large 32-36; medium 26-24½; small 14-19 cents per dozen.

LOUISIANA POULTRY

Louisiana Weekly Broiler Market Summary

The broiler and fryer market was steady for the week ending July 19 closing steady with unsettled undertone. Ready to cook demand was mostly fair. Live supplies were adequate. Prices paid per pound 13½-14½, mostly 14 cents. The hen market was about steady for the weeks close. Heavy type hens at the farm brought 14 cents and light type at the farm brought 5-6 cents per pound.

Final Bids Show Cotton Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 contract closed 25 cents a bale higher to 90 cents lower Friday.

The No. 1 contract was inactive and closed unchanged to $1.50 a bale lower on the basis of final bids.

There was moderate activity in the No 2 contract, with rallying tendencies held in check by profit taking and hedging, following recent market advances on the prospects of a small cotton crop this year and the tightening of supplies of high quality spot cotton.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service reported an additional 34,193 bales of U.S. cotton exports. This brought exports, since the start of the season Aug. 1, to 4,638,257 bales against 2,889,405 to the like date a year ago.

No. 1 futures closed unchanged to $1.50 a bale lower than the previous close.

MEMPHIS COTTON

Sales reported on the Memphis market Friday totaled about 2000 bales or down from Thursdays sales.

Spot cotton prices remained unchanged. Memphis quoted middling 1 1-16 inches at 26.00 cents per pound and strict low middling 1 1-16 inches at 24.25 cents per pound.

Generally open weather helped the crop along.

American Military Tactics In Vietnam Noted

EDITOR'S NOTE — How have American military tactics changed in the 30 months that U.S. ground forces have been committed to the war in Vietnam? How has enemy pressure on the borders affected the U. S. military effort? Here is a thorough-going appraisal of current tactics by an Associated Press correspondent who frequently visits all major American fighting units and who won the Pulitzer Prize for his reporting from Vietnam.

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — The majority of American troops in Vietnam are now fighting local Viet Cong guerrillas rather than major Communist units.

This change in emphasis in the U.S. military effort is becoming apparent throughout the country. It exists despite the conventional North Vietnamese infantry thrusts across the demilitarized zone and the Cambodian border.

What it means is that American troops are now required to shoulder not only the burden of destroying the North Vietnamese battalions and regiments that roam the borders and the Communist war zones but they must now also fight at the grass roots.

They must fight around the villages and hamlets where the enemy is often a farmer by day and a guerrilla by night, where women and children dig mines into roads and lay out bobby traps.

PART OF WAR

This was a part of the war that the South Vietnamese themselves were expected to handle while the U.S. forces launched campaigns against major enemy forces lurking at the edges of the populated regions.

NEWS PERSPECTIVE

Of the 25 American infantry regiments now deployed in Vietnam, 14 are committed to the guerrilla war, getting little notice because they seldom engage in headline - making battles.

These American "pacification" units are suffering a steady toll of casualties. A brigade of the U.S. Army's 9th Division operating in the northern Mekong River delta has had 150 men killed and 1,000 wounded since February.

Except at the demilitarized zone, where the North Vietnamese could launch a conventional invasion of the South supported by artillery, the U.S. Command now rates the main enemy divisions and regiments less a threat than the guerrillas.

"We keep on destroying them, yet they always come back. And in the meantime nothing changes in the enemy position amongst the population. That is why we are now at the grass roots," a senior American officer responsible for policymaking commented.

"We hoped at one time that the Vietnamese army would handle the guerrillas, and thereby destroy the military arm of the Communist political organization. That was part of our misconception. Few realized the depth and the scope of this threat.

"I didn't think the threat was as bad, or that Saigon for example was as close to being strangled, or that the enemy was so deeply embedded in the fabric of the country."

The committment of American forces in strength to the guerrilla war "is a calculated risk," one senior commander said. The threat of major North Vietnamese units is as real as ever.

Three divisions of enemy troops are known to be in the Communist war zones north of Saigon. The bloody fighting at the demilitarized zone and along the Cambodian border has shown the kind of price that has to be paid to stop them.

But the United States has fought that kind of war before. American troops have stopped cold every conventional North Vietnamese thrust into the interior, pushing the enemy back across the borders. Limitations placed upon them prevent American field commanders from giving chase across the borders—so eventually the Communists return, and the cycle begins again.

The big battles in the Communist war zones and along the borders seem to have had no impact on the virulent guerrilla political and military structure in the populated areas.

At least half the population is under Communist control, yielding taxes and young men to the cause. American policy now is to move into this area—sort of fending off the major North Vietnamese units with one hand and swiping at the guerrillas with the other.

WHOLE THING

"The whole thing is so unconventional that we are having a hard time understanding it," a senior American officer said. "The U.S. military organization doesn't fit itself to this kind of war. Our military terminology doesn't fit it either.

"It is difficult to paint a word picture of what is happening, even to military men skilled in the business."

One principle of war is that the aim is to destroy the enemy's main gound forces, winning control of the population.

"In Germany we didn't consider the hearts and minds of the peple while we fought there," this officer explained. "But in Vietnam this triangle is turned upside down. We destroy divisions a couple of times over and yet the effect on the population is negligble. We still lose them.

"The objective in Vietnam is obviously not the destruction of the divisions. It is the control of the people."

U.S. involvement in the grass roots struggle is the third step in an ever-deepening American involvement in the war.

The original purpose of U.S. combat troops was to guard American bases so that the Vietnamese regular army could get out and fight. The failure of the Vietnamese led to the commitment of American ground troops directly against the Communists.

Now the United States finds itself fighting a guerrilla war that was meant to be handled by he Vietnamese paramilitary forces.

This challenges long-standing cautions from various military men against U.S. involvement in ground war on the Asian mainland. It also runs the risk of furthering the propaganda that "white" troops are trying to subjugate "yellow" peoples, and in some eyes may tend to put the United States in the same category as the French, often accused of supporting a puppet government in Indochina while they fought-rebellious forces.

Also being tested is another military maxim that weighs against use of regular army troops, rather than especially trained forces such as the Green Berets, in antiguerrilla operations.

Under the new tactics, each American infantry battalion is assigned a district. Its mission is first to destroy the district guerrilla company, then the village platoons and finally the hamlet guerrilla squads.

Americans are reaching deep into the countryside, in many cases taking over tasks that have been in the hands of Popular Forces troops, the most poorly paid and unmotivated soldiers in Saigon's army.

American troops often lie in ambush positions around Vietnamese militia posts during the wet monsoon nights to guard against Viet Cong attacks. The militiamen themselves never go out at night.

OPEN ROADS

Americans open the roads each day, launch continuous helicopter assaults against the guerrillas and build the bridges. The war has become so personal that they often are searching for one particular man, such as the guerrilla in Rach Kien district who singlehandedly mines a road every few days, destroying American vehicles. The American battalion knows his name and often interrogates his family, but he continues to elude them.

American military commanders hope the presence of U.S troops at the grass roots level will stimulate the Vietnamese military. More Vietnamese units are working with Americans than in the past, but progress is slow and them prospects for a Vietnamese takeover of the job are far distant.

American commanders are finding, as they did in the fighting against major enemy forces, that the Vietnamese seem happy to leave the work to Americans.

U.S. infantry companies spent three arduous days and nights searching out a Viet Cong force in a delta district. The district chief asked that a U.S. company be sent south to set up ambush positions against another Viet Cong force.

An American adviser recalls he asked the district chief: "What about your own two Popular Force companies, who have been sitting around here doing nothing for two weeks" The district chief replied, "They are tired, let the Americans do it."

American commanders speak of the ineffectiveness of the Vietnamese military and political systems at the provincial level. They detect signs of progress, they say, but the going will be long and hard.

For example, the operations and intelligence officers in one delta district have been indexed by both the American CIA and the Vietnamese military security service as probably being Viet Cong agents. Both officers are still on duty, providing intelligence and plans used by American forces on operations, because of the tangled chain of command.

U.S. authorities believe that there is a limit to how deep american troops can go in the countryside, and that this limit has already been reached in districts surrounding Saigon. There e. ..y forces have been knocked down from battalions to squad-sized groups of five or six men.

THE VIET CONG

"He—the Viet Cong—is fragmenting as a defense mechanism against us. But we don't have any illusions. If we leave the districts he will spring back as a battalion again," a senior American officer said.

The final blow to the Viet Cong in these districts would have to be delivered by the Vietnamese in the form of efficient police to establish law and order, and aid and assistance to the population.

Dozens more American infantry regiments could be deployed in Vietnam against the guerrillas, especially if the Vietnamese fail to respond further and the war drags on.

The North Vietnamese could disrupt these tactics by launching a series of massive infantry assaults across borders, forcing the American high command to use all available troops in conventional warfare.

But American commanders doubt this will be the case except in the demilitarized zone. In that area the Communists have disrupted U.S. Marine efforts to break the guerrilla infrastructure.

To dissuade the enemy, numerous B52 raids are launched against suspected enemy troop encampaments, long-range patrols are constantly on the move. Eleven American brigades are poised to meet the immediate threat.

"The Communists would like nothing better than for us to go looking for him in War Zones C and D with a couple of divisions," a senior commander commented."

"That way, his men back in the provinces could operate as they wanted to. But we don't intend to do that.

"Our job is at the provinces, wiping out the Viet Cong military infrastructure.

Port Group Gets Backing Of Hatten

"I have no reluctance at all to see the port authority reactivated at this time because before the good faith and good credit of Ouachita Parish could be put behind any bonds, there would have to be a vote of the people," West Monroe Mayor W. B. (Bert) Hatten said Friday.

Hatten is chairman of the Ouachita Parish Industrial Coordinating Committee (OPICC) which directed formation of the Greater Ouachita Port Commission, though formation has not been accomplished yet.

"I am not a lawyer, but it is a basic principle of Louisiana that before a political subdivision could issue bonds, it would require a vote of the people of that subdivision," Hatten said.

Hatten spoke after a port commission study group, appointed by the Ouachita Parish Police Jury, began an inquiry into the advisability of the police jury backing revenue bonds the port commission would be allowed to issue.

The study group met Thursday night but did not make any definite recommendations, though chairman Hugh Vick said it was the feeling of the study committee that it may not be a good idea to have the parish police jury responsible for bonds the port commission could issue up to $15 million outstanding at any one time.

Present state law that provides for organization of the port commission says the full faith and credit of the parish must back bonds issued by the port commission.

T. W. Humphries, president of the police jury, said Friday afternoon the jury is not expected to act on the matter until it hears a full report from the study committee. He said he had no idea when the report would be made.

Hatten has said the commission bonds would be repaid from earnings of the commission in port facility rentals and similar revenue producers.

Hatten said the commission, with five of seven members already named by the local city councils, would meet soon to organize and elect officers. He added, however, that the group is "kind of waiting" for the police jury to appoint its one member to the commission.

How To Keep Well

By Theodore Van Dellen

GOALS IN TB

Mortality from pulmonary tuberculosis dropped from 87 to 18 per cent in the last 20 years. Even tho the disease is on the wane, 8,000 Americans died from TB last year demonstrating that we still have a long way to go. Physicians are banking on early detection and finding an effective preventive.

Skin testing in children is one of the most valuable screening tools to find infected and infectious individuals. A positive reaction means that they came into contact with the tubercle bacilli. A positive take does not always indicate active tuberclosis but the possibility exists when a negati-e test changes to positive. Many of these children are treated for TB even tho the chest X-ray does not show a lesion.

Everyone with a positive skin test should have an annual chest x - ray. Those with a history of tuberculosis should have this done every six months. Most health departments keep extensive files on former patients and insist upon repeated checkups. Full cooperation is needed to eradicate the disease.

Treatment usually involves the major antituberculosis drugs — streptomycin, isoniazid, and para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS), given in combination. Other remedies are used when the causative agents become resistant to "the big three." These antimicrobials deserve most of the credit for the lower death rate and for reducing the duration of the illness. In the past, many years were spent in the sanatorium. Today, the average time is less than 6 months.

Tuberculosis is no respecter of age. It is more common now in adults than in children and 85 per cent who succumb are over 45 years of age. In addition, two-thirds of all TB patients are in this age group.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope request.

TOMORROW: Basis of Memory.

OVERLAPPING TOES

Mrs. C. writes: A young baby's toes on each foot overlap. Will this defect correct itself?

REPLY

Not if it is marked. Most childhood defects of this type require manipulation, splints, braces, or surgery. Never take a chance on children's feet. This youngster ought to be taken to a physician for firsthand information.

PLASTIC SURGERY

B. M. writes: Does a person have to remain awake during a plastic operation?

REPLY

The kind of anesthesia chosen depends upon the type of plastic surgery and the condition of the patient. Many surgeons do not believe that such procedures warrant the added risk of a general anesthetic.

CATARACT SURGERY

T. T. writes: Does everyone with cataracts need surgery? I refer to my dad who sees fairly well considering his age and inactivity.

REPLY

No. Surgery is suggested when practical vision is lost in both eyes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cataract.

CONSTIPATED CHILDREN

Mrs. L. writes: What causes constipation in youngsters?

REPLY

Laziness or failure of the parents to encourage a regular habit. I presume the children have been examined and no physical reason for the condition has been found.

Mississippi Terms Move For Negroes Ridiculous

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi Employment Service officials Friday branded "ridiculous" charges that Southern politicians are behind a move to train Mississippi Negroes for northwest Iowa farm jobs.

John Aldridge, director of the State Employment Security Commission said, "any such charges that the program was politically inspired are ridiculous and unfounded. Any racial implications are ridiculous."

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission ordered director James Thomas to investigate allegations that Southern politicians were behind the program to train Mississippi Negroes for relocation in Iowa.

The order came after the commission received a letter from the Rev. Rims Barber, formerly of Davenport, Iowa, and now with the Delta Ministry of the National Council of Churches. He said the program was "a political move on the part of Mississippi politicians."

O. H. Simmons, chief of the Mississippi commission's Division of Operation functions, said the proposal came in January from federal participants at a farm placement meeting at San Francisco.

"They said there was a shortage of farm labor in three states and asked us if there was a possibility to recruit workers to relocate them where there were shortages," he said. "Mississippi, of course, has a surplus of farm labor."

The Iowa people, he said, indicated an interest and the two states conferred several times to work out a program.

"We sent people to Iowa to see what kind of training was needed," Simmons said.

Simmons said that the whole idea was put forth by the federal officials and not by an political figures in the state.

In his letter to the Iowa Civil Rights Commission, the Rev. Mr. Barber said one big objection to the program was that "the governor of Iowa would be endorsing the campaign promises of Mississippi politicians to 'move them niggers north.'"

In Des Moines, John M. Ropes, head of the Iowa Manpower Development Council and the state Office of Economic Opportunity, said as far as he knew the claims of politics were not valid.

Ropes visited the area in Mississippi that would furnish the recruits and found some support for the projects among Negroes.

While in Mississippi, he said, he "never got the feeling that this was an attempt by the white community to exploit or remove the Negro."

Ropes said the program would eventually bring 75 Negro workers and their families to two dozen northwest Iowa counties.

Mississippi's population of over 2,200,000 includes almost a million Negroes.

New Bridge Dedicated

James W. Moore of Monroe, vice - chairman of the Louisiana Board of Highways, served as master of ceremonies Friday for dedication of the $12.3 million Mississippi River - Gulf Outlet bridge built in New Orleans.

The bridge was constructed under supervision of the Louisiana Department of Highways and was funded by the U. S. Corps of Engineers by appropriation of Congress.

Featured speaker at the occasion was Gov. John J. McKeithen, who was introduced by Moore.

Other speakers included Mayor Victor H. Schiro of New Orleans.

The bridge is a high - level, four - lane structure that links Orleans Parish with St. Bernard Parish on La. 47 and crosses the Gulf Outlet, a short - cut channel for shipping on the Mississippi River from New Orleans to the Gulf of Mexico.

Following the bridge dedication, Gov. McKeithen, Moore and other officials visited the Michaud Complex as guests of National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials. They were shown the Saturn I and Saturn IV space boosters being manufactured by Boeing and Chrysler Corp.

Television In Review

Entertainment Specials Noted

NEW YORK (AP) — The three [illegible] television networks are planning [illegible] entertainment specials this fall.

CBS is now announcing special shows as Broadway productions and movie premieres.

Dunn said that as a result of his experiences with Death of a Salesman, CBS is now actively seeking [illegible] where a nothing [illegible] was used to open it.

Capuna discovered the burglar about 7 a.m.

Crowley Tavern Loses $10,000

CROWLEY, La. (AP) — Between $8,000 and $10,000, mostly in $100 bills, was stolen early Thursday night from the Crowley City Bar owned by Phillip Capuna.

Police said the safe behind the bar was taken into a storeroom where a cutting torch was used to open it.

Capuna discovered the burglary about 7 a.m.

Cool Weather, Race Top News Of The Week

By JIM C. BARDEN
United Press International

The weather in many cities throughout the country has been cooler than expected this summer but the racial scene has been as hot as predicted.

Racial violence flared in cities from coast-to-coast during the week.

A national conference of black power was held in Newark, N.J., the hottest racial spot, and delegates voted to endorse the "black revolution and the right of people from Watts to Newark" to act against "oppression."

At the same time National Guard troops and state police were pulling out of Plainfield, one of several New Jersey communities rocked by racial violence in the wake of the Newark rampage that left 26 dead. It also left the nation's worst racial scar since the riots in the Watts section of Los Angeles in 1965.

But while the racial troubles in other communities and cities were not as violent, the reason the Negroes gave for it were essentially the same: Better housing, better jobs, more opportunity and alleged police brutality.

In Illinois, the governor thought the situation at Cairo had enough to call out a National Guard contingent. Other spots that experienced racial violence, or tensions, during the week were Nyack, N.Y., Durham, N.C., Minneapolis, and Fresno, Calif.

Covington Man Held In Killing

COVINGTON, La. (AP) — Bernell Bradford, 30, [illegible] was held in jail Friday charged with murder in the shotgun slaying of an off-duty policeman, Clarence Marigny, 51.

Marigny was killed by two blasts from a single-barrel 12-gauge shotgun Thursday night as he went into his backyard to burn some trash.
